POLICE COURT JUDGES PLACE BOND QUESTION BACK ON MAJ. PRATT

Hitt Asserts Patrolmen Should Be Instructed on Charges.

BAIL REGULATED BY COUNTS PLACED

Schuldt Says Matter Is One for Officers of Department.

SURPRISED AT HINT OF BONDSMEN LINK

Hart Amplifies Statement, Calling Arresting Men "Overzealous."

The Police Court judges yesterday threw back to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, the question of bonds in regard to liquor cases.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt stated that it was entirely up to Maj. Pratt to instruct his men as to what charges should be preferred, which, according to the bond rules of Police Court, regulate the bond assessed.

Presiding Judge Gus A. Schuldt declared that if there was a hint of exorbitant bonds in regard to liquor cases the matter should be referred to police department heads so that the police would be instructed as to when and what to charge.

Believes Police "Overzealous."

At the same time Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, in charge of liquor prosecution in the Police Court, who started the wrangle with his statement that he had suggested nominal bonds for liquor-law violators, amplified that statement by saying that he believed the police were "overzealous in their charges."

"It's a terrible situation," said Judge Hitt. "If Mr. Hart believes that the bonds should be reduced he should know—he's been a prosecutor in this court longer than most of the judges. I know for a fact that the present situation is introducing an element of commercialism in court procedure. That should be stopped and I for one will back Mr. Hart in his crusade."

Judge Hitt declared that if it had been called to Maj. Pratt's attention that police were booking defendants on charges they knew would not stand up that the department was at fault.

Matter for Police Department.

Judge Schuldt did not go so far, but declared that "If Mr. Hart believes the bonds are too severe in liquor cases and is working on the theory that raiding police make charges which they can not substantiate, then the matter should be taken up with the head of the Police Department."

Judge Schuldt declared that so far the judges of the Police Court had not received any suggestions from Mr. Hart that police should assess a nominal bond.

Judge Hitt, however, declared that he believed a $500 bond, the sum fixed by the judges on a possession charge, would hold most liquor violators. "We are the judges," said Judge Hitt, "the committing magistrates, and we should know, after hearing the evidence, if a defendant arraigned before us is guilty of a greater offense than that charged. Leave it to us. Few people who make bond 'skip' them, and a man who makes a $500 bond will be in court the next day just as surely as a man who makes a $2,500 bond."

Hart Starts Controversy.

Mr. Hart, in charge of liquor-law enforcement in Police Court, started the discussion with the statement carried exclusively in The Post of Tuesday that he had made a suggestion that nominal bonds be fixed when persons are arrested on liquor charges, leaving the question of higher bond, if needed, up to his office, the United States Commissioner or the Police Court judges at the time of arraignment.

Maj. Pratt, superintendent of police, countered with the statement that the police had nothing to do with the fixing of bonds in cases involving violations of the prohibition law. The police official pointed out that on March 5, 1929, three days after the passage of the Jones "five-and-ten" law, judges of the Police Court had met and fixed a flat scale for liquor law charges.

This scale, according to Maj. Pratt, and records in the clerk's office of Police Court provides the following bonds: Manufacture of liquor, $2,000; sale, $2,000; transportation, $2,000, and possession, $500.

Mr. Hart amplified his previous statement with another yesterday in which he pointed out that he had not meant to imply that he police fix the bonds.

"What I suggested was that bonds in liquor cases are set too high before they reach us. My viewpoint is that

Calvin Coolidge

Says: A serious weakness of the direct primary is the cost to the candidate. The picture of an electorate, eager and informed, going to the polls to defeat all that is bad and to elect all that is good has proven an illusion. Human nature, in spite of legislation, is still human nature and functions accordingly. Securing good government by presenting good issues and candidates to the people requires work and money.

At an election this is provided by the party organization. In a primary the candidates must have their personal organization, involving large expense in a large State.

Oftentimes in politics too much money defeats itself, but not always. Then, when the person apparently elected with no violation of any State or national law is presented to take the oath of office, trouble begins. The Federal Constitution specifies the qualifications of officeholders and the method of election. Yet when all these requirements are met admission to the Senate may be denied.

Large personal expenditures are an evil. Their necessity can be removed by returning to the original method of election. But it is even worse for the Senate to evade or violate the Constitution in an effort to apply "an extralegal remedy."

MONTGOMERY PARTY OUTLINES PLATFORM

Regular Democrats Pledge Continuation of Road and School Projects.

SEWERS ARE DISCUSSED

Pledging themselves to "work diligently to continue and increase the unprecedented countywide progress which Montgomery County has made in its public afairs under the present county administration," organization Democratic candidates last night announced the platform upon which they will depend for the support of the voters of the county in the Democratic primaries September 9.

The platform pledges the organization candidates to a continuation of the program of road building and school construction which has been a part of the program of the present administration. It is further declared that the cost of improving subdivisions in the county will continue as front foot benefit assessments as at present in order that the property benefited by the improvement will pay the cost.

The candidates pledge themselves to continue to build roads in all parts of the county with the proceeds of county-wide bond issues and to continue to spend 50 per cent of the county-wide or State road construction funds in the agricultural sections of the county and to divide equally the remaining 50 per cent between the two suburban districts. It is pointed out that "no street in any new subdivision has been built with county-wide or State road funds or with any other general county tax money during the past ten years, but built entirely from front foot benefit taxes levied against the lots in the subdivision improved" and that 56.5 per cent of the county-wide money spent in suburban sections in the past ten years has been spent in the western suburban district, Bethesda, Chevy Chase, Glen Echo, Cabin John, &c., while 43.5 per cent has been spent in the eastern suburban district, Silver Spring, Kensington, Takoma Park and Wheaton.

OWNERS, OPERATORS OF MOVIES CONFER

Contract Parley Is Enlivened by Rumor of Walkout by Projectionists.

NATIONAL BODY STEPS IN

Determined to reach agreement before adjourning, representatives of the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association and the Motion Picture Machine Operators Protective Union, Local 224, were behind locked doors late last night still debating a new contract between the two organizations to become effective September 1.

The contract with the booth operators last night had superseded the differences between theater owners and musicians in importance and both sides were firm in their declaration that the session would continue until the contract had been settled.

However, a new complication arose yesterday in the already muddled situation involving owners, musicians, stage hands, projectionists and electricians. Even if the new contract with the men who operate motion picture machines is consummated before the present agreement expires, local thaters may be without services of union men in the booths.

It was learned on reliable authority that the national organizations of both motion picture machine operators and electricians have informed Washington theater owners that unless an agreement with the musicians is reached by September 1, members of their organizations will not be available to local houses.

In other words, projectionists and electricians, nationally, have determined to stand by the musicians in their battle for a renewal of the present contract which has been rejected by the theater owners because of the clause giving the Musicians Union the power to dictate the number of men each theater shall employ.

The situation regarding the musicians and the theater owners yesterday remained at a standstill except that the union issued a letter to the owners and to the press reiterating its stand on the protective contract.

In this letter the musicians accused

HIGHER INCOME TAX RATE SEEN FOR NEXT YEAR

Treasury Officials Look for Forced Return to Old Figure.

EXPENSES INCREASE; COLLECTIONS SHRINK

Mellon Is Said to Share Belief Reduction Must Go.

PRESENT CUT VOTED IN DECEMBER LAST

Slash Covers Only Fiscal Term; Reenaction Now Held Unlikely.

(Associated Press.)

Slight hope for continuing next year the lower level of income tax rates now in effect was held yesterday by Treasury officials after a preliminary survey of the 1930 returns.

The Treasury's daily financial statements show dwindling collections and increasing expenditures to such an extent that the tax experts believe it will be impossible to recommend to Congress a repetition of the emergency 1 per cent reduction put into effect this year.

Old Rate Automatic.

Unless Congress takes some action at the short session beginning in December, the permanent and higher schedule of income tax rates enacted in 1928 goes back into effect on this year's income, upon which taxes are to be paid next year.

Secretary Mellon is saying nothing about the prospects pending a study of the more complete returns which will be available in the fall, but it was indicated he shares the view of the experts that continuation of the reduction is unlikely.

Last December Congress quickly approved the recommendation of Mr. Mellon for a $160,000,000 cut in this year's income tax. That was just after the collapse of stock prices on the New York exchange and at a time when the Government was looking for a means to stimulate business. However, the reduction was made to apply only on taxes paid in 1930.

Income Falling Off.

Customs receipts and income tax collections are falling behind last year's returns since the opening of the fiscal year, July 1. Figures as of Tuesday, August 19, showed collections this fiscal year of $48,912,850 on customs, as compared with $85,778,694 a year ago and $41,664,986 from income taxes, compared with $52,015,423.

Returns from miscellaneous internal revenue taxes, which were not affected by the emergency reduction for this year, showed a slight increase over last year's collections from this source. Meanwhile ordinary Government expenditures during the first six weeks of this fiscal year are higher than those for the similar period last year. All of which contributes to Treasury pessimism over the chances of continuing the lower tax schedule.

SIX AVIATRICES TO LEAVE CITY IN DIXIE DERBY

Race to Chicago Starts at 11 A. M. Today From Airport.

Mrs. O'Donnell Retains Lead in Women's Flight in West.

AURORA MAN AHEAD IN RACE FROM TEXAS

Five Fliers Reach Syracuse in Hop From Hartford to Chicago.

With Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, of New York, favored to win, six women fliers entered in the Dixie Air Derby from Washington to Chicago, will take off from the Washington Airport at 14 o'clock this morning, following a breakfast at the field for pilots and race officals. The 1,575 mile flight will take the entrants through Richmond, Columbia, Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis and a number of other cities. The race will end at the Curtiss-Wright-Reynolds Airport, Chicago. Cash prizes offered total more than $4,000.

Miss Nancy Hopkins, Washington aviatrix, is the only entrant from this section. Others participating are Mrs. Omlie, Vera Dawn Walker, Martie Bowman, Laura Ingalls and Charity Langdon. Mary Von Mack, of New York, was expected to enter, but had not made an appearance here last night.

Will Precede Fliers.

R. C. Oertel, of New York, contest chairman, spent yesterday in going over details of the race at the local airport. He will precede the contestants in a plane capable of making 200 miles an hour, and will superintend the timing of arrivals at control points.

Mr. Oertel announced that the race would not be started this morning in the event of bad weather along the route. No trouble from this source, however was expected.

The women pilots will arrive at the airport at 9 a. m. to meet newspapermen and photographers, and to receive final instructions from officials. The planes will be warmed up at 10:45, and promptly at 11 o'clock Jack Wynne, manager of Hoover Field, will fire the starting gun. Mrs. Omlie's ship will be the first to take off. It is capable of a top speed of 140 miles an hour and this factor, coupled with Mrs. Omlie's long experience as a pilot, made her the betting favorite at the field.

Elaborate preparations have been made for entertaining the crowds expected to witness the take-off. All during the day exhibitions of stunt flying, balloon bursting and other features will be offered.

STATES MUST STAND FOR RIGHTS, ASSERTS HUGHES, BAR SPEAKER

Better Administration of Justice in U. S. Held Greatest Need.

TALK TO ASSOCIATION BROADCAST BY RADIO

Criticisms of Decision by Courts Are Defended as Wholesome.

EXPLAINS FUNCTIONS OF SUPREME BENCH

Solicitor General Charges Abuses of Country's Bankruptcy Law.

Chicago, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice of the United States, in an address before the fifty-third annual convention of the American Bar Association tonight advised the States to resist encroachment upon their authority.

He also said the greatest need of the Nation was improvement in the administration of justice, especially of criminal law.

The jurist's speech was designed to welcome to the meeting several score distinguished foreign visitors. It was broadcast over the NBC chain through station WGN.

"Paradoxical as it may seem," he said, "not only the security, but the efficiency, of the Union lies in the appropriate maintenance of the authority of the States within the proper spheres of local government and local policy. Despite all the economic changes and the intimacies of closely related activities, notwithstanding the vast expansion of interstate commerce in novel forms leading to unanticipated applications of the national authority, which was granted with extraordinary wisdom in a very general formula, the States continue as reservoirs of power reserved, not conferred, by which they deal with a multitude of particular concerns and enjoy differentiations congenial to local sentiment.

Defends Court Criticism.

"However difficult it may be, in constitutional interpretation, to maintain perfectly, and to the satisfaction of all, this balance between State and Nation, it is of the essence of American institutions that it should be preserved so far as human wisdom makes this possible, and that encroachments upon State authority, however contrived, should be resisted with the same intelligent determination as that which demands that the national authority should be fully exercised to meet national needs."

The Chief Justice defended criticism of court decisions as wholesome, and he charged the bar association with responsibility of securing honest, able and fearless prosecuting officers, magistrates and judges.

"We do not blink the fact that the greatest need in this country today is improvement in the administration of justice, especially of the criminal law," he said. "More important than uniform laws, or mere changes in procedural details, more necessary than any statement of the law, is the fostering of respect for law itself, and the maintenance of the primary safeguards of life and property against organized criminal assaults against the debauching of our institutions by the capitalization of crime.

Supreme Court Function.

"Most essential is the robust sentiment which, regardless of the differences of political parties and policies, demands purity and competence in official action, without which all democratic efforts are futile. Some of our difficulties strike so deep in our social organization and methods that even a united bar could not solve them.

"Our government is one of laws through men, and most of our problems in the administration of the criminal law could be solved by the

Second Girl Is Born To Duchess of York

DUCHESS OF YORK,
only daughter-in-law of King George of England, to whom a girl, fourth heir to the British throne, was born in Scotland yesterday.

English King and Queen Leaving Today to See Throne Heir.

Glamis, Scotland, Aug. 22 (A.P.).—King George's only daughter-in-law, the Duchess of York, in Glamis Castle tonight gave birth to a daughter, her second child.

The baby is another heir-presumptive to the English throne. In the line of succession she stands fourth, following her uncle, the Prince of Wales; her father, and her 4-year-old sister, Princess Elizabeth.

The royal mother and the little princess are "making highly satisfactory progress," an official bulletin from the gray old castle stated.

News of the birth was immediately flashed by telegraph to King George and Queen Maray, who are staying until tomorrow at their Norfolk estate of Sandringham. Their majesties quickly sent back messages of congratulation to the duke and duchess.

The baby is the fourth grandchild of the king and queen. The others are Princess Elizabeth and the two

KELLOGG NOMINATED TO WORLD TRIBUNAL

Election to Justice's Post at Nearing Election Is Held Certain.

MAY FILL HUGHES' TERM

Geneva, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The name of Frank B. Kellogg, renowned among friends of world peace, today was presented to the League of Nations by the American group as candidate for justice of the World Court.

The election of the former American Secretary of State by the league council and assembly next month is regarded as certain, since he is held in high esteem as one of the authors of the famous Kellogg-Briand pact, which renounces war as an instrument of national policy.

It is held likely also that Mr. Kellogg at the same time will be elected to complete the term left vacant by Charles Evans Hughes, who resigned to become Chief Justice of the United States. The unexpired term will end January 1, 1931, when the full term of nine years will begin.

The American group, which is composed of Elihu Root, Newton D. Baker, Roland William Boyden and John Bassett Moore, delayed announcement of its selection to a late date, and it had begun to be feared in Geneva

HYDE TOURS VIRGINIA ON DROUGHT SURVEY

Secretary Brands $32.50-Ton Hay Prices Exorbitant at Harrisonburg.

ACCOMPANIED BY THREE

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 21.—Mixed hay at $32.50 a ton for drought-stricken farmers of the Shenandoah Valley was branded as extremely high in price and out of reason tonight by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, chairman of the Federal Drought Commission, who, with three experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, is making an inspection of the drought-affected area in northern Virginia and the Valley of Virginia at the invitation of Representative J. A. Garber, of the Seventh District.

Secretary Hyde was accompanied on the trip by John D. Shepherd, an expert in the crop statistics division; H. N. Vinall, of the forage crop division, and Mr. Hall, of the Secretary's office. Mr. Shepherd estimated the corn crop east of the Blue Ridge, along the Lee-Jackson highway, at 20 per cent normal. He made no estimate on the corn crop along the

Coworkers Send Body Of Census Girl Home

Money Raised to Pay Funeral Costs of Californian Whose Meager Salary Went for Living Expenses; Escort to Coast Provided.

Marjorie Anderson was one of the hundreds of young women who, with a blind faith in the Government to provide, left her home and came to Washington to secure one of the many temporary positions available during the taking and compiling of the recent census.

All alone, Marjorie started from her home in Santa Rosa, Calif., where the members of her family pooled their resources, ever slender, to furnish her transportation to the Capital.

She arrived without mishap and in May went to work in the review section of the census of distribution. Small though her salary was she managed to make a go of it with three or four other girls, until two weeks ago.

Marjorie caught cold. The cold developed into pleurisy and Wednesday night, at Georgetown Hospital, she died, despite the best that medical science could do for her.

Then and then only did Marjorie's plight become known. There was not a cent to pay the hospital, the doctor, or the funeral expenses. All the girl's meager earnings had gone to pay her living expenses, so that she had been unable to afford even the nominal sum which would have provided insurance against just such an emergency.

But brave Marjorie, destitute in death, even as she had been impoverished in life, was not forgotten by the few friends she had made and by scores of others who had never known her. When word was spread in the Census Bureau that Marjorie was dead, apparently with none to care for her, the sympathy of her coworkers was aroused.

A few who knew her led the rest. Within less time almost than it takes to tell it enough money had been raised to send Marjorie's body back to the loved ones in California who were unable to pay to have it sent. A committee called at Georgetown Hospital and the kindly Sister Superior of that institution immediately canceled the hospital's bill. The same committee visited the doctor who had attended Marjorie in her last illness. He too quickly crossed the account off his books. Then the question of having some one to accompany the body to California was brought up. It seemed cruel that she should return alone, even as she had come to Washington. Those in the Census Bureau who had worked so hard to provide a decent funeral for Marjorie succeeded. They found a Government employe

Al Smith Denies He Issued Statement Read at Picnic

Agrees Democrats Will Soon Be in National Control, as Asserted in Telegram, But Wants Unauthorized Use of Name Halted.

New York, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith tonight denied issuing a statement attributed to him yesterday in which he was quoted as predicting that the Democratic party "will soon be in national control and make this a happy as well as prosperous Nation."

The statement, in the form of a telegram, was purported to have been sent to the Joel Parker Association, political organization, at its annual outing yesterday at West Orange, N. J. It was published in the metropolitan press and elsewhere.

The denial, issued from Mr. Smith's office here, was as follows:

"Former Gov. Smith and his office have no knowledge of the telegram supposedly received under his signature by the Joel Parker Association at West Orange, N. J., on Wednesday.

"On August 18 former Gov. Smith received a printed invitation to attend the outing of this association and under date of August 19 sent the following letter to Thomas E. Curran, secretary of the association, at 218 Van Buren street, Newark:

"'Dear Mr. Curran: Former Gov. Smith has received your invitation

State Department Aiding U. S. Pilots to Span Globe

Roger Williams and Ted Londgren Confer With Officials in Capital to Obtain Consent of Foreign Governments Over Flight Route.

(Associated Press.)

The intention of Roger Q. Williams and Ted Londgren to make a round-the-world flight was revealed here yesterday after the fliers had discussed their proposed route with State Department officials.

England, the Irish Free State, Germany, Holland and Japan, at the request of the aviators, have been asked by the department for permission to allow their territory to be flown over or touched upon during the flight. Private arrangements are being made by the fliers to secure permission of the Soviet government to permit the flight across European Russia and Siberia. Having no diplomatic relations with the Soviet, the State Department does not correspond directly with Moscow.

Williams and Londgren spent most of the day conferring with department officials regarding their plans for the flight.

The State Department yesterday disclosed that it has opened negotiations with the principal European powers with a view to establishing reciprocal agreements for civilian aircraft which would eliminate the necessity of asking on each occasion permission of the governments concerned to fly over their territory.

selection of competent men, free from the corrupting influences of fear and favor."

On the functions of the Supreme Court, the Chief Justice said: "If the Congress could determine the limits of its own authority, it could destroy the States. It could usurp the authority of the National Executive. If the States could determine the limitations of their power, they could destroy the Union. If the President could finally interpret the Constitution for himself, executive authority could be made supreme. Somewhere in such a system, with a written constitution establishing restrictions of State power and of national power, there must be a final arbiter, that is, final until the people in the constitutional method prescribe a change, if that be desired.

Responses to Address.

"It was also necessary that this arbiter of constitutional interpretation should be as far removed as possible from the sway of passion, of partisan motives, from the swirl of temporary gusts of the political wind. Moreover, the rights of individuals are concerned in the distribution of powers, and as controversies arise they must be determined in accordance with law, that is, the fundamental law. And thus we have the classic explanation of the scope of the judicial power reposed in a supreme national tribunal."

Responses to Chief Justice Hughes' address were made by Viscount Dunedin, Lord of Appeals in England; Sir Roger Gregory, M. Henry Decugis, of France; Justice Hanna, of the Irish Free State; James Stevenson Leadbetter, King's Counsel of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Chief Justice Harvey, of Canada.

Bankruptcy Law Hit.

Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher condemned the American bankruptcy law in an address today before the association.

He described the law as one "perfectly designed to encourage dishonesty and reckless disregard of business integrity on the part of large numbers of people," and outlined what he termed were needed changes in the law. His address was based largely upon the investigation of abuses revealed in the Southern district of New York and conducted before him while he was judge of the United States District Court there.

Relating the results of that investigation, he said, "It was obvious that estates were badly administered, with much needless delay and wasteful expenditure of money. There was little benefit in the statute for the creditor and the ease with which debtors procured discharge from their debts, without investigation of the causes of their failure, seemed to encourage fraud and dishonesty in trade. One could not avoid the impression that back of many of the proceedings brought into court there was crookedness and collusion."

Cites Three Purposes.

Mr. Thacher named, as three purposes which a bankruptcy law should be designed to accomplish, prompt and efficient realization, liquidation and distribution to the creditors of the commercial wreckage of the bankrupt estate; the discharge from their indebtedness of honest debtors, overwhelmed by financial misfortune through no fault of their own, and the prevention of reckless and dishonest practices in trade.

The Speaker suggested it might be well for United States attorneys to assume the duties of investigating each bankruptcy and the conduct of each bankrupt. "This would assure effective and speedy prosecution wherever dishonesty is disclosed," he added.

In the delivery of several standing committee reports before the convention today only one—that on uniform State laws—provoked serious discussion. Vigorous objection was made to the inclusion of a recommendation for a uniform child labor law by William Montgomery, of Philadelphia. He opposed the recommendation, he said, because of the different conditions in the various States. The report nevertheless was adopted.

Immediately following the breakfast, Admiral Moffett took off for the National Air Races in Chicago, in a plane piloted by Lieut. Comdr. J. J. Clark, of the Anacostia Naval Air Station. He was escorted by eighth Marine Corps fighting planes from Quantico.

Maj. James Doolittle, former Army ace, will take off from Bolling Field this morning with a message from President Hoover to officials of the air races in Chicago. He expects to make the 630-mile flight without a stop.

Amarillo, Tex., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Aided by a tail wind, Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Calif., today added to her lead in the national women's air derby, from Long Beach to Chicago.

Mrs. O'Donnell averaged nearly 170 miles an hour from Lubbock, Tex., to Amarillo, her elapsed time totaling 42 minutes and 11 seconds for the 120 miles. She won both legs of today's flight, speeding from Roswell, N. Mex., to Lubbock in 1 hour 3 minutes and 41 seconds.

Miss Doig Still Second.

The leader said she loafed along today after observing that Marjorie Doig, Danbury, Conn., in second place, was detained at Lubbock by a flat tire. Miss Doig, who finished second in today's first lap, and fourth in the Lubbock-Amarillo hop, still retained her second place position in total elapsed time. She trailed Mrs. O'Donnell 33 minutes, however.

Several thousand spectators jammed the landing field here to greet the women fliers.

Unofficial elapsed time of the entrants:

Mrs. O'Donnell, 8:06:52.
Miss Doig, 8:39:55.
Jean La Rene, Kansas City, 11:01:01.

Men's Plane Race.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Jack Livingston, Aurora, Ill., held a lead of an hour and twelve minutes over W. G. Moore, Kansas City, at the end of today's leg of their air race from Brownsville, Tex., to Chicago. The two are the only fliers in the race, a class B event of the national air derby.

After the day's flight from Fort Worth, Tex., to Tulsa, Livingston's total elapsed time was computed unofficially at 9:54:12 and Moore's at 11:06:19.

The fliers will spend the night here and take off tomorrow for St. Louis stopping en route at Springfield, Mo.

Hartford-Chicago Derby.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Five planes in the Hartford-to-Chicago air derby arrived at the Syracuse Airport from Albany within eight minutes of each other this afternoon.

Verne Roberts, of Moline, Ill., landed at 1:52 p. m. (Eastern standard time), followed a minute later by Henry A. Little, jr., of Philadelphia. J. Wesley Smith, of Philadelphia, arrived at 1:55 p. m., with Charles E. Myers, of Cleveland, a minute behind him.

Lee D. Brusse, of Moline, Ill., pilot of the fifth plane, landed at 2 p. m.

The fliers left Hartford this morning and stopped at Albany for lunch. They will remain here overnight.

Miami-to-Chicago Fliers.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Art Davis, aLnsing, Mich., pilot, who took the lead after leaving Jacksonville early today, was the first of the three Miami-to-Chicago air derby fliers to land at Augusta. Davis landed at 3:52:20 p. m.

Davis left Macon, the first-out-of-Florida control point, at 3:01 o'clock (E. S. T.) this afternoon.

George Burrell, the second to land, came down here at 3:55:28 and was followed by Art Killips at 3:56::28. They left Macon at one-minute intervals after Davis.

AIR MAIL CONTRACT INQUIRY IS HINTED

Opening of New Routes Here Coincident With Rumors of Sweeping Probe.

MONOPOLY DANGER SEEN

With aviation leaders from all over the country gathering here for the opening of bids Monday on the two new transcontinental air routes, one of which will start at Atlanta and the other at New York, both terminating at Los Angeles, rumors of what may result in a far-reaching investigation of the air mail contract situation were heard here yesterday.

Charges are being informally made that several of the leading aviation companies of the country, with the knowledge of certain high Government officials, are attmepting to form a combination which would virtually give them complete control of the air mail field and put a number of smaller companies out of business.

It is alleged by those making the charges, that advertisements for the bids to be opened Monday have been so drawn that they violate, if not the letter, the spirit of the Watres air mail act, passed at the last session of Congress to encourage established aviation companies. Also that this is done in such a way as to give virtual control in bidding to companies which at the present time carry air mail, that is to a combination of the Aviation Corporation and its subsidiaries in the case of the Atlanta route and to the Western Air Express and the Transcontinental Air Transport Co. in the New York-Los Angeles case.

This has been done, it is alleged, through insertion in specifications of a paragraph which provides that all bidders to be eligible must show proof that they have had at least six months' experience in night flying over a distance of at least 250 miles. Since many companies at present giving passenger service in various sections of the country are virtually excluded from night flying by Department of Commerce regulations, which require a lighted airway with intermediate landing fields, this, it is asserted, confines bidding to companies now carrying air mail.

Six Companies Involved.

At the present time it is understood that there are but six companies in the entire country which come under this class, these being the Aviation Corporation and its subsidiaries, dealt with by the Postoffice Department as individual companies; the Western Air Express, United Aircraft, Northwest Airways, Eastern Air Transport and the Thompson Airlines, running out of Detroit.

Other passenger-carrying companies which, it is understood, were just as much considered by Congress in the passage of the Watres Act are practically eliminated by this night-flying clause. Among these are United States Airlines, running from Denver to Tulsa and St. Louis, with a daily flying schedule of approximately 2,000 miles; the Southwest Air Fast Express, operating from St. Louis through Oklahoma and Texas with a daily average of approximately 5,500 miles, and the Pittsburgh Airways Co., operating a daily service between New York and Pennsylvania, via Philadelphia.

It was announced from Pittsburgh today that a virtual agreement for a merger of four passenger carrying lines into a $4,000,000 corporation, which would bid for the new contracts had been formed, consisting of the Pittsburgh Airways, the United States Airways, the Ohio Air Transport Co. and the Southwest Air Fast Express.

Court Action Possible.

In case the bid of this concern is turned down as not qualifying under the night flying clause mentioned, it is expected that recourse will be had to the courts. In this case it is likely that should the contract be awarded to any other company, an injunction forbidding Comptroller General J. R. McCarl to issue any payments for flying done under the contract will be asked. This would bring the entire matter into the open.

It is also stated that Attorney General Mitchell will be asked to bring suit against the Aviation Corporation, the T. A. T. and the Western Air Express, together with a number of officials and attorneys, charging conspiracy in the restraint of trade.

It is openly stated here in aviation circles that terms of the specifications for the bids have been so framed that while bids will be submitted by a number of companies, a combination has been formed which will give the Atlanta contract to the Aviation Corporation and its subsidiaries, while the New York Los Angeles plum will fall to T. A. T. and the Western Air Express. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is connected with T. A. T. as technical adviser.

Judge Hatfield, representing the new generation, said today that the feud has long since died out and that members of the Hatfield family are now engaged in upholding law. Joseph D. Hatfield, son of "Cap" Hatfield, is sheriff of Logan County.

Port Tobacco Women Delay Tourney, Dinner

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Aug. 21.—At a meeting of the women of Port Tobacco Parish, held in the Times Crescent Building this morning, it was voted to omit, this year, the tournament dinner and dance, which has been an annual event of Christ Church. The reason for not holding the event this year is because of the scarcity of farm products in the county, due to the drought.

It is not the idea of the women to discontinue the event permanently and they are already talking of plans for next year.

DRY CHIEF TO OPEN INSTRUCTION CLASS

Woodcock Plans to Have 24 Selected Operatives Get Training Here.

EDUCATOR IS TO PRESIDE

(Associated Press.)

The Prohibition Bureau's plan for teaching its agents approved methods of enforcing the dry laws is almost ready to be put into operation.

Twenty-four specially selected operatives—two from each administrative district—will gather here on September 2 and, after a fortnight's training, will return to their own localities to instruct the rank and file of the enforcement personnel.

H. M. Dengler, who combines qualifications of experience in educational work and in dry law administration, has been selected to take charge of the school. He will be assisted by Webster Spates, an attorney long on the staff of the bureau.

Objects of Instruction Plan.

The school for agents occupies an important place in the program drawn up by Director Woodcock with the objective of increasing bureau efficiency and building up public confidence and respect for the enforcement service.

Methods of investigation, knowledge of the law and instruction in methods of teaching are to be essential subjects of the curriculum. An experienced educator, yet to be selected, is to be assigned the task of showing instructors how they can best impart knowledge gained in school here to agents throughout the country.

The vexing question of when an agent has the right to stop an automobile or enter a building is also to be given considerable attention. Mr. Woodcock feels that the law on this point is now well established and that incidents that have caused criticism in the past can be avoided.

Recent Director's Ruling.

In a recent case the director himself ruled that hearsay evidence did not constitute "probable cause" nor entitled an agent to stop a motorist. In this instance he punished two operatives by suspensions for halting a motor car after being told by a stranger that it was used for running liquor.

Mr. Dengler is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College and a school teacher of many years' experience. He entered the employ of the bureau several years ago and has been engaged primarily in instruction work. For a period he went from place to place giving enforcement agents personal instruction, and in addition he conducted from Washington a correspondence school in enforcement methods.

The 24 instructors are being chosen in some instances by Mr. Dengler through his personal acquaintance with the men. In other cases district administrators are recommending men for assignment.

Loss is estimated at $12,000, partially covered by insurance.

Favoring of Bidder Charged to County

Montgomery School Board Cited at Meeting of Progressives.

Charges that the Montgomery County Board of Education arranged with one bidder so that he filled the bins of at least three schools in the county before bids submitted by more than twenty other bidders were opened on August 12, were made at a meeting of the Progressive Democratic Party of the county at 127 West Bradley lane, Chevy Chase, Md., last night.

It was charged further that the coal thus supplied was of a grade inferior to Big Vein Georges Creek coal "or its equivalent" as called for in the school board's specifications, the dealers thus being able to submit a bid of $5.25 per ton, or 2 cents lower than their nearest competitors.

The coal, it was explained, was put in the bins at the Woodside, Glenmont and Takoma Park schools by Griffith & Perry, Silver Spring coal dealers, long before the bids were opened, and was in there when the bids were called for. The charges were made by Carey E. Quinn, of Chevy Chase, secretary of the faction, who pointed out that the facts would be set forth in an issue of The Montgomery Independent, organ of the party, to be published today.

Ruggles, "Last of Lumber Barons," Dies at 84 Years

Eccentric Who Made Millions in Timber Prepared Own Meals Over Office, Spurned Neckties, Wore Moccasins and Never Married.

Manistee, Mich., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Charles F. Ruggles, 84 years old, known as "the last of the lumber barons," died at his home here tonight. He had extensive timber interests in many parts of the United States.

The passing of Mr. Ruggles marked the end of perhaps the most picturesque career in the romantic history of the American timber industry.

Although a multimillionaire, with property in California, Florida, the Carolinas and other sections of the country, his life was simple to the point of eccentricity. He lived alone in small quarters over his office, prepared his own meals and did his own cleaning. He never married. He wore moccasins and never had a necktie under his long beard.

While living in this manner in this small city of northern Michigan the old lumber man took an intelligent and active interest in the affairs of the world. It was revealed two years ago that he founded and financed the American Judiciary Society for the purpose of "eliminating delays in law." The revelation was made in a letter of appreciation written by the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft.

Last winter Mr. Ruggles was involved in a $5,000,000 litigation with John F. Rademaker, whom he had made his protege 40 years before and who had become wealthy as a partner of his patron in the timber and salt business. The case was settled after several days of testimony in court, during which the story of the long friendship between the two men was told by both.

Mr. Ruggles was born in Maine. He came to Manistee 64 years ago.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR ASKS COURT INQUIRY

Action Pertains to Quiz of Magistrates in Manhattan and the Bronx.

MAY BE EXTENDED LATER

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt was on record tonight as having urged the appellate division of the supreme court to investigate on its own motion the magistrates' courts under its jurisdiction and the justices thereof, "so that the public may know the facts."

In letters to Victor J. Dowling, presiding justice of the appellate division, first department, and to Edward F. Finch, acting justice in the absence of Justice Dowling, who is in Europe, Gov. Roosevelt urged the investigation because "recent charges against certain magistrates have raised a question as to the conduct of the magistrates' courts and the magistrates themselves." He told Justice Finch he supposed that in the absence of Justice Dowling, Justice Finch would "present this matter to the court."

The first department has jurisdiction of the magistrates' courts in New York and The Bronx Counties. It was indicated that the governor later might ask the appellate division, second department, to undertake an inquiry similar to that asked of the first department. This would extend the investigation to all New York City magistrates' courts.

There was no explanation at the executive offices as to why Gov. Roosevelt confined his request to the first department. It was generally supposed he addressed that one department because the "recent charges" he referred to related only to courts under the jurisdiction of the first department.

The governor's letters to Justices Dowling and Finch followed closely upon his order of Tuesday night, directing State Attorney Hamilton Ward to supersede District Attorney Thomas T. C. Crain, of New York County, in the investigation into reports that former City Magistrate George F. Ewald paid $10,000 for his appointment to the magistracy, and the executive's designation of Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook to convene an extraordinary term of court in New York September 15.

Just before he left, on a trip through the south-central part of the State, the governor was asked if he agreed with some lawyers that his order of Tuesday night could be construed to permit the attorney general to proceed with an investigation of magistrates' courts in New York City generally. The governor replied that his intention was to confine the ward investigation to the Ewald matter, regardless of lawyers' interpretation of his order.

MONTGOMERY ORGANIZATION DEMOCRATS OUTLINE PROGRAM

from the State gasoline tax allocation in order that the county can use the roads while they are being paid for is supported and to continue to assess the costs of purely local government in the suburban area against the property of that section and not in county-wide funds. It is stated in the platform that the candidates believe there will be no necessity for raising the suburban tax rates in the next four years.

Improvement of educational facilities, increases in the pay of school teachers and other improvements in the school system planned to bring the system on a comparative basis with the District school system and allocation of school buildings in regards to the growth of population are pledged. It is pointed out that Montgomery County's school system has been rated as leading in efficiency ratings of the 23 counties of the State and that Maryland's school system has been raised from thirty-fourth place to fourth in the national rating in the past ten years.

Continuation of the plans for the arterial highway construction program in the county, which is to be coordinated with the District arterial highways in accordance with the regional highway plan is pledged.

The candidates justify the expenditure of a larger share of the suburban district money in the western section by citing the fact that more taxes are paid in that area and that it has two and one-half times the frontage on the District line that the eastern district has. It is stated that an eighth arterial highway into and through the western district in the extension of Massachusetts avenue into Montgomery County.

Continued support of the Washington Sanitary Commission in all of its reasonable efforts to provide a safe water supply for the metropolitan area and in its problems relating to the disposition of the sewage of this area is pledged.

To Participate in Survey.

"We propose to participate with it in a careful and conservative survey to determine the surest and most economical future source of water supply for the suburban county, including the possibilities of the Potomac River and a direct connection and the purchase of water from the District of Columbia, upon the assurance of the commission that all expenditures pending the determination of such sources of permanent supply, consistent with existing public requirements, will be held to the minimum.

"While it is true that the operation of the plant under present conditions, with every effort to hold the expenses of operation down, has resulted in an occasional period of bad taste and odor, the water supply has at all times been free from contamination and has measured up to all health standards."

The platform points out that advent of the commission has saved the public at least one-half of the annual cost it pays for the construction of water mains in the reduction of fire insurance rates, and has relieved the public, with the cooperation of highly efficient fire departments of the dread of a conflagration and has relieved Rock Creek and Sligo Creek almost entirely of Maryland sewage and within a few months will have relieved all of the valleys in the western area of Montgomery County of this menace through the completion of the Willett Creek sewer.

Supervised by Commission.

It is pointed out that, despite the enormous increase in water and sewer mains, teh commission is serving the people of the county at an average of $3 a month per house for both water and sewage, this figure including all taxes of every kind and water charges.

The commission is supervised by the Public Service Commission of Maryland in its construction expenditures and by the State Board of Health in its health standards, and its books are thoroughly audited by the State and independent auditors, which are regularly printed and reported on to the State Legislature biennially, it is pointed out.

Support of the Cramton bill project, which will give the county a park system that rivals that of the District of Columbia throuh the medium of a gift of $1,500,000 and the loan, without interest for eight years, didates, the repayment of the loan to be made from the 7 per cent park tax now in effect and without increase in taxation.

Repay Through Bond Issue.

The money will be repaid through the medium of a 50-year refunding bond issue to be authorized by the 1931 Legislature and two general reassessments which will take place prior to 1939 being considered certain of showing an increase over the increases which already have been listed so that the bonds can be retired by the use of 5 cents of the existing 7 cent tax.

The use of the Cramton bill money will make available for the construction of recreational features in the main parks and the operation and maintenance of community parks or recreational centers adjacent to the existing centers of population located too far from the main valley parks of the system for their children to use in every day recreation purposes. The sums of $110,000 already raised and the $320,000 to be raised in the next eight years by the 7 cent tax, as well as the $50,000 given the county by the State for the purchase of park lands.

The platform pledges extension, support and maintenance of the zoning regulations now in force in the metropolitan district of the county, pointing out that no serious objection or complaint has been made of the administration of the zoning laws to date.

Increase of Police Force.

Support and gradual increase of the county police force as now organized and administered is pledged. It is pointed out that the county is entirely free of commercial organized gambling, disorderly resorts and generally objectionable overflow activities from Washington and that this condition is due to the efficiency of the county police.

Enforcement of the county local option law is better enforced than the national prohibition act is enforced in the District of Columbia or in any adjacent county of Maryland or Virginia it is pointed out in pledging continued law enforcement. It is further pointed out that the present board of county commissioners has refused to issue licenses for prize fights in the county and that legalized parimutuel betting at Rockville Fair or the location of any other large race treak with legalized betting in the county has been prevented by the commissioners.

In support of the county volunteer fire departments, the platform says: 'We favor the continuation of the volunteer fire departments in the county and believe that they should receive every encouragement and assistance from the county so that they may continue to develop and operate efficiently. We go further and pledge ourselves not to amend the existing law as affecting any of the volunteer fire departments in Montgomery County while they give adequate fire protection to the communities they serve."

Regarding Budget System.

Regarding a budget system and general efficiency, the platform declares: "Montgomery County was one of the first governmental units of the United States to install a budget system. The Montgomery County budget takes the form of the annual tax levy in which all county taxation is separated into definite items setting forth definite appropriations for definite purposes.

"These definite items of the county's annual tax levy are fixed by the board of county commissioners by June 30 of each year after a week's duly advertised public hearing upon the subject matter of the entire levy. This procedure is required by law and is a custom well known to all citizens sufficiently interested in the county's financial system to make a study thereof.

"County funds are regularly audited by the State auditor and by the county auditor, both of whom are appointed and function as required by law."

In conclusion, the platform declares: "We are confident that the business methods of the Montgomery County government are modern and up-to-date and administered with all possible economy and with absolute honesty."

G. O. P. IN ALABAMA GIVES AID TO HEFLIN

Convention Decides It Would Not Be "Expedient" to Make Nominations.

"DEBT OWED SENATOR"

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The general election in Alabama next November will find only two tickets in the contest for State and senatorial offices, the State Republican convention meeting here today having decided it would not be "expedient" for that party to nominate candidates.

A resolution providing for the elimination of a State party ticket this year was adopted unanimously after speakers from the floor had declared their intention of supporting Senator J. Thomas Heflin and Hugh A. Locke, independent candidates for senator and governor in opposition to the regular Democrats.

Delegates from strong Republican sections of the State declared the party "owed Heflin a debt" for his part in the Hoover campaign in 1929, and one expressed the opinion that the election of Locke, with the aid of the Republican vote, would "tear up" the Democratic party for 50 years.

Senator Heflin and Locke were excluded from participation in the Democratic primary August 11 because of their activities against Alfred E. Smith in 1928, and with Dempsey Powell, candidate for lieutenant governor, are running on a "Jeffersonian Democratic" ticket.

Maryland Operators Plan Coal Association

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 21.—Initial steps were taken toward the organization of a Maryland coal operators' association at a meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel here, at which John S. Brophy, of Frostburg, presided. About 30 operators were present. This meeting follows a recent dinner here, at which the slogan was "Maryland Coal for Maryland People," looking to reviving the Maryland coal industry.

Gov. Ritchie, to whom resolutions were sent, in reply suggested an organization of the operators and the miners and that they take action which will be the basis for the creation of a proposed commission by him to look into the matter of reviving the industry and offering suggestions. The operators propose to incorporate and a committee on by-laws was appointed. The plan is to have State-mined coal used in public projects and institutions.

DUCHESS OF YORK GIVES BIRTH TO GIRL

sons of Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood.

Already there s talk of a name for the new princess. Loyal Scotsmen are suggesting "Margaret," the old Scottish royal name. As the princess is the first royalty born in Scotland in 300 years, they feel they can press their desire.

John R. Clynes, home secretary of the Labor government, officially attested the royal birth. He and H. R. Boyd, ceremonial secretary to the home office, were both at the castle in accordance with an ancient tradition that the government in power must guarantee the genuineness of heirs presumptive to the throne.

Nurse Beevors, who attended the duchess and Princess Elizabeth, was with her highness tonight. Dr. David Miles, who, with Sir Henry Simson, noted London obstetrician, assisted at the birth, has attended the duchess since her childhood. He is the family doctor of her parents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore.

As soon as the king and queen had been notified, a telegram was sent to the home office in London.

Glad Tidings Are Spread.

By telephone, telegraph and cable the tidings were flashed to the empire and the world at large. Everywhere loyal subjects of the crown breathed with relief after an anxious three weeks of waiting, during which the baby was expected daily.

Tomorrow night the great beacon of logs piled by the country folk on Hunters Hill, 2 miles from Glamis Castle, will be lit to celebrate the event.

In the village of Glamis, nestling near the castle, men and women tonight shouted to each other, "A daughter."

Mingled with rejoicings were expressions of disappointment that the baby had not been a boy, a young prince in the direct male line of succession.

Storm Hurts Communication.

The duchess and her little daughter are lying in her childhood bedroom. A heavy rain beat against the mullioned windows.

Outside, while the little princess was being born, there was a night of wild weather, with whipping rain, thunder and lightning—a hurly-burly of the elements such as the witches of Macbeth bespoke.

In its violence the wind had torn down the telephone lines between Glamis Castle and Airlie Castle, where Home Secretary Clynes has been waiting. The line had just been repaired when an urgent summons came for him, and he left immediately for the castle. Under English constitutional law the home secretary must be at hand when a possible heir to the throne is born.

G. L. McCurdy Laundry Head.

Attention has been called to an article appearing in a recent issue of The Post, regarding the disappearance from her home in Alexandria of Mrs. Eleanor Gates eBrgen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwarzmann, in which it was stated that Mr. Schwarzmann was proprietor of the Alexandria Laundry. George L. McCurdy is president of the laundry company.

the police, instead of charging a person only with possession, tack on sale of transportation or manufacture when they know in nine out of ten cases only the possession charge can be prosecuted.

Practice Fattens Bondsmen.

"If the police would make only one charge the defendant still would be available for arraignment, and at that time if we had decided he should be held for the grand jury the bond could be increased."

The police practice has been severely complained of in recent months, and many lawyers are advising their clients to stay in jail overnight rather than pay a premium on an excessive bond. The lawyers' viewpoint is that if their client makes a $2,500 or $2,000 bond over night he will be arraigned the next morning on a simple possession charge and will have his bond lowered to $500.

The lawyers say that the police practice merely fattens the bondsmen, pointing out that only on the rarest occasions do the bondsmen ever return part of the premium. According to the attorneys, police make a raid on a sale warrant sworn to by an informer or special employe, and book the person or persons arrested on charges of sale and possession despite the fact that they know the sale charge will not stand up because of the fact the informer's testimony can not be corroborated in most cases.

Lawyers Congratulate Hart.

The lawyers brand this practice as an evil that should be corrected and almost to a man have congratulated Mr. Hart on what they describe as his "stand for justice."

Judge Schuldt refused to commit himself as to whether he considers police methods of booking liquor charges as an evil.

"The matter has not been brought to our attention officially," said the jurist. "I read something in the paper about it, but that's as far as my information goes. Of course, the judges have open minds, and if a suggestion that lower bonds be assessed is presented to us with sufficient reasons for a change we will take action."

Judge Schuldt Surprised.

Judge Schuldt also expressed surprise to learn that many lawyers advise their clients to remain in jail overnight on liquor charges rather than make a bond $1,000 or $2,000 higher than the court will fix the next day.

"I don't see why that is," said the judge.

Told that lawyers complain that their clients pay a premium on a high bond but get no refund when the bond is reduced the judge also expressed surprise. "I thought," he said, "that in cases of that nature refunds were always made."

The judge refused to commit himself as to whether he believed some police make liquor charges that they know will not be upheld because the more severe the charge, the higher the bond.

Cases Thrown Out.

Mr. Hart's revelation that he had suggested nominal bonds in liquor cases came in answer to a question as to whether he thought many police and professional bondsmen had a "working agreement."

His statement also followed his action of Monday in throwing out 13 of the 25 liquor charges made by police over the week-end. This action resulted in an investigation by the Police Department and the recommendation that at least two policemen who made the illegal arrests be reprimanded and that twelve others be warned against any such action in future.

Mr. Hart was quoted yesterday as saying that he believed the bondsmen wanted a nominal bond, but at the same time admitted, on questioning, that he had heard that the bondsmen and police were working together.

At the same time he stated that his suggestions for reduction of bonds had been made in open court to Judge John P. McMahon and Judge Ralph Given. Both judges, according to Mr. Hart, have been in the habit of asking defendants what bonds they had paid on liquor charges. Judge Hitt declared that he, too, had been doing the same thing

ENGLISH LAWMAKER DIES IN SHIPWRECK

Commodore King and Five Others Swept to Deaths as Yacht Breaks Up.

RESCUE EFFORTS FUTILE

Fowey, Cornwall, England, Aug. 21 (A. P.).—The 22-ton yacht Islander, wrecked on the jagged rocks of Lantivet Bay last night in a violent storm which pounded the English South Coast, carried Commodore Henry Douglas King, a prominent member of Parliament, and five other men to death.

Those on shore while the yacht was breaking up believed they had heard cries of women and children aboard, but so far as can be learned only men occupied the vessel. Other reports said the bodies of two young children had been washed ashore, but officials stated tonight this was untrue.

Those aboard with Commodore King, who had chartered the Islander August 9 for a vacation cruise, were Commander Searle of Berwick-on-Tweed; Surgeon Captain A. R. Brailey, Dunmow, Essex; Capt. Glazebrook of Bishop, Stortford; Harry Lucas, captain of the yacht, and his 17-year-old brother, Walter.

The yacht, owned by Lieut. Col. John N. Diggle, had been participating in regattas of the Royal Yacht Squadron along the English South Coast.

Members of the Fowey guard tried to rescue the marooned party with life lines, but were thwarted by the tremendous seas and the rocking of the yacht.

Commodore King was a noted soldier and politician, formerly aid-de-camp to King George and conservative whip of the House of Commons in 1921. He was 53 years old and was a sailor until 1899, then went into law and politics. He served both in Europe and the Near East in the World War, suffered wounds and received decorations. He was lord commissioner of the treasury from 1922 to 1924, financial secretary to the war office from 1924 to 1928, and secretary for mines last year. Recently he had been Conservative member in the House for South Paddington.

Brailey was a widely known surgeon. He had been a medical officer of H. M. S. President, a naval training vessel for London boys, and honorary surgeon to King George.

H. L. Mencken Gets License.

Baltimore, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Henry L. Mencken, for years literary spokesman of the bachelors, today went to the city hall and obtained a license for his forthcoming marriage to Miss Sara Powell Haardt, Baltimore and Montgomery, Ala., writer. The announcement of the engagement was made several weeks ago and the wedding was set for September 3.

Railroad Institutes Whistle Set to Music

Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Hark! Those sweet sounds which issue from the railroad tracks emanate from the pneuphonic horn, successor to the locomotive whistle and the engine bell.

The Lackawanna Railroad, putting on display today a train of the sort which will be in operation on its suburban lines by the end of 1930, pointed with pride to the pneuphonic horn as one of the features of its new equipment.

More pleasing in tone but equally penetrating, the horn, said railway officials, will be "less annoying than whistle and bell to those residing near the right-of-way," yet it will deflect its warning both fore and aft, a happy circumstance when trains want to back up.

COURT HALTS CASES AGAINST FILM FIRMS

Antitrust Law Indictments of Dozen Companies Are Dismissed.

CIVIL ACTION IS TAKEN

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Indictments charging twelve motion picture companies with violation of the Sherman Antitrust law were dismissed today by Federal Judge George Cosgrave at the request of Government counsel.

Trial of the companies on the charges was scheduled to begin today. Government counsel placed before the court a "consent decree" under which the defendants are restrained from entering into any conspiracy for restraint of trade in films.

Dismissal was anticipated when it was announced earlier that counsel for the Government and the companies had agreed to a settlement which included filing a civil suit against the defendants in place of the criminal action.

The indictment, returned last year, charged the film companies with entering into an agreement to force independent exhibitors out of the industry unless they entered into preferential booking contracts.

The defendants were West Coast Theaters, Inc.; Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky Corporation; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation; First National Pictures, Inc.; United Artists Corporation; Universal Film Exchange; Fox Film Corporation; Pathe Exchange; Vitagraph, Inc.; Warner Brothers Pictures, and Vitagraph Co. of California.

Man Held in $190 Theft From Capital Physician

Charles L. Lewis, 38 years old, of Sixth street southeast near B street, was arrested yesterday by headquarters detectives on charges that he stole $190 from the U. S. Capitol physician, Dr. Harry W. Jarvis. He was later released on $500 bond.

Police said that the money was stolen from Dr. Jarvis' office in the Capitol. It is alleged by police that Lewis visited the office, and took the money while Dr. Jarvis was out of the room.

CENSUS GIRL'S BODY IS SENT TO COAST

departing for California last night and he agreed to see that the body reaches relatives safely.

That chance discovery cut the cost of transporting Marjorie's body to the West Coast and the Census Bureau workers took what remained of their contributions, bought flowers and wreaths and placed them beside Marjorie in the undertaking parlors of V. L. Speare at 1009 H street. And scores of them yesterday afternoon attended the simple funeral rites held in these parlors. Marjorie, practically unknown in life, was befriended by many at death.

Her immediate superiors in the bureau, John Guernsey and John Clarke both spoke highly of her efficiency in the department in which she had labored.

And so Marjorie Anderson, who came alone from the West to do her short bit for the Government, returned last night, not alone, but accompanied by one whose only interest will be to return her to the loved ones to whom she had so fayly waved good-by—as she started for Washington—and life.

"I like the additional DRIVE in ESSO" says ALMA VON STEINER

Noted Washington Sportswoman

Driving her own car in and around Washington almost every day, Mrs. von Steiner knows from actual experience that all gasolines are not alike. She knows that some are more powerful than others and thus make driving easier and safer.

That's why she says: "I like the additional power and drive in ESSO—and it's so sure and steady that it gives me the feeling of utmost confidence, even in the worst of Washington traffic."

And that's one of the reasons ESSO is the most popular motor fuel sold in Washington among women and men alike, as shown in a recent impartial traffic check. Another reason is that ESSO gives no knocks. Its base stock is low in knock-rating, even before Ethyl fluid is added to it at the refinery.

Test ESSO against the gasoline you are using now. Let one tankful prove to you that ESSO's extra, silent power means greater safety in today's crowded traffic—and better performance on the open road.

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey

How 345 out of 1000 Washington motorists voted ESSO—more than voted for any other gasoline or motor fuel on sale in the District of Columbia. Like this driver in front of the Union Station, many said "I'm glad to pay 3 cents more a gallon for ESSO because I get more power—at no greater cost per mile."

Mrs. von Steiner, Woman's Golf Champion at the Beaver Dam Country Club; winner, last April, of the Phyllis Keeler Miller trophy at the Washington Golf and Country Club. One of the best-known amateur golfers in Washington.

G.O.P. OF ARLINGTON WILL MEET TONIGHT

Delegates to Convention to Be Chosen at Lyon Park Community House.

JONES ROTARY SPEAKER

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Pursuant to a call from the Republican State committee for the State convention to be held in the city market auditorium in Roanoke August 30, County Chairman J. E. Spaulding last night announced that there will be a county Republican mass meeting in the Lyon Park Community House tonight at 8 o'clock to select delegates to attend the State convention and nominate a candidate for the United States Senate to oppose Senator Carter Glass. Mr. Spaulding states that the county is entitled to 43 delegates and 43 alternates.

Chairman Spaulding announced last night that the party plans to carry on a vigorous campaign this fall.

With J. Cloyd Byars, of Arlington County, having announced himself as an Independent candidate for the Senate, indications are that the campaign in the county will be interesting.

Dr. F. M. Brooks, of Fairfax, who has been nominated for Congress from the Eighth Congressional District to oppose Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, will carry on an extensive campaign.

Speaking at the luncheon meeting of the Arlington Rotary Club yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club, G. Jeter Jones, of Richmond, Va., governor of District No. 56, Rotary International, which comprises all clubs in the State, discussed the aims and objects of Rotary and stressed the need of all clubs to support the campaign against illiteracy in the United States which has been accepted by Rotary International as its outstanding objective of the year.

Congratulating the local club on its rapid growth and on its accomplishments, he urged this club as well as all other clubs in this section to cooperate with the National Government in putting over their program of parks and boulevard extensions within the State.

"No organization having as its major object 'service' was ever founded on a more firm foundation than the Rotary Clubs," he said.

Before the meeting Mr. Jones met the officers, directors and chairmen of the various committees, at which time he discussed many plans for future consideration by the local club.

Following its annual custom, more than 30 employes of the Arlington Dairy with their families spent yesterday afternoon and evening at Great Falls.

During the afternoon the program included a number of athletic events, including races for both men and women, with a number of special attractions for the children. Dinner was served at the Great Falls Hotel.

The Arlington County Monarch Club held its weekly meeting yesterday at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse with A. B. Honts presiding.

It had been announced that the special business before the club would be the question of where the club would hold its future meetings.

Following a brief talk by former President Walter U. Varney, who spoke in support of the motion that the club continue to hold its meetings at the woman's clubhouse, the club supported Mr. Varney by unanimous vote.

Meeting last night at the courthouse, the Arlington County Zoning Appeal Board approved the granting of a permit to Frank M. Coward for the erection of a building at Nauck Heights.

It appeared that the plat as presented by Mr. Coward showed a setback for buildings in that area of 18 feet. While the county zoning ordinance calls for a 25-foot setback, the board approved a 15-foot setback for all buildings within the block in which the building to be erected by Mr. Coward is to be located.

Granting a request for a continuance in the appeal which has been noted by Daniel H. Rucker in the question of the location of the ice distributing plant located on the Lee highway and opposed by W. E. Goodridge and others of Lyon Village, the board announced a hearing on the question will be held at the next meeting, the date of which will be announced by the chairman, J. Hammond Brewer, jr.

$100 Is Left by Will For Feeding Squirrels

Squirrels which live in Washington's parks can look forward to a winter of plenty, and need have no more apprehensions when snow and ice cover the ground and cover edibles.

This was assured yesterday when the will of Clarence Gale Allen, who died August 4, was filed for probate in District Supreme Court. The will provides that $100 shall be turned over to the Washington Humane Society and specifies that the money is to be used only for the care of the squirrels. Mr. Allen explained that the unique bequest was made in appreciation of the pleasure given his mother by the antics of the little park rodents.

Mr. Allen's estate is valued at more than $81,000, all of which consists of personal property. Mrs. Martha J. M. Allen, the widow, is given all the estate after the payment of a number of specific bequests, and also is designated as executrix.

Cut Freight Rates Will Help County

Montgomery to Be Forced to Import Quantity of Feed for Cattle.

Freight rates on certain farm commodities have been reduced one-half by the railroads as an aid to the drought-stricken farmers of Montgomery County, it was announced yesterday by O. W. Anderson, county agent. Mr. Anderson is issuing notices to all farmers and dairymen in the county.

Rates on shipments of concentrated grain feeds and hay coming into the county and on outgoing shipments of live stock will be reduced one-half, Mr. Anderson announced.

County Agent Anderson estimated that 20,000 tons of hay will have to be imported from other States to supply the needs of county farmers whose crops have been ruined by the drought. He also estimated that 5,000 tons of concentrated feeds will have to be imported. The reduction in rates is part of the effort put forth by the railroads to aid in drought relief and is made under the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Game Protective Group Plans Fire Prevention

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 21.—The meeting of the Allegany Fish and Game Protective Association at the clubrooms on North Liberty street tonight was addressed by District Forester H. C. Buckingham. The meeting was devoted to discussion of forest fire prevention. Mr. Buckingham urged cooperation between the Department of Forestry and the fish and game organizations, which would result in saving forests and wild life.

Investigation has shown that the loss of game life by the recent forest fires was somewhat exaggerated, although there has been tremendous destruction of game cover, which is one of the main essentials to successful game propagation. The fish and game association is working on a definite program of future activity for the protection of forests.

Court Bars Confession; Orders Man Acquitted

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 21.—Callie Farmer, who was indicted by a Caroline County grand jury on four counts charging voluntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal burning of his 11-year-old son, Stephen; arson, larceny and housebreaking, was freed of the latter charge when Judge Frederick W. Coleman, presiding over the Carolina Circuit Court at Bowling Green, excluded a written confession signed by Farmer, which was said to have been obtained under duress, and instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

The defense counsel presented evidence which showed that the confession was obtained by Justice of the Peace R. V. Farish and F. S. Perry, Washington lawyer and owner of the barn in which Farmer's son lost his life by burns, by promises of immunity. Farmer is slated to be tried on the remaining charges in October.

FOOD JOBBERS TELL OF GANG'S CONTROL

New York Truckman Asserts He Was Beaten When He Refused Tribute.

WITNESS IS THREATENED

New York, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Witnesses testified today that Daniel Dichter, "muscled in" as head man of associations virtually controlling the flour business in New York, levied tribute on both jobbers and truckmen and when his mandates were disregarded, punishment was meted out by gangsters armed with iron bars.

Richter himself was called to the stand by Deputy Attorney General William B. Groat, jr., who is conducting the State investigation into food prices, but refused to waive immunity and so was not examined lest possible later legal action against him be weakened.

Today's session opened on a sinister note, when Mr. Groat cleared the hearing room in the attorney general's office on the ground that a previous witness had been intimidated right in the room and made afraid for his life.

Feared for His Life.

"This witness was told to keep his mouth shut just before he took the stand," Mr. Groat said. "I don't know yet who it was that threatened him and I won't put the witness on the stand to question him because he has told me he fears for his life."

Since it occurred before today, the intimidation is believed to have been in connection with investigation into an alleged boycott of Utah eggs by jobbers and their truckmen, as it was not until today that attention of the inquiry was turned from eggs to flour.

First direct evidence of actual violence in connection with reputed food racketeering came today when Jacob Green, owner of a Brooklyn trucking business delivering flour from jobbers to bakers, took the stand. His head was shaved on top and the bald circle was crossed by a long wound.

Beaten With Iron Bars.

Green said he had been a member of a truckmen's association and Richter had attended a meeting and made himself the controlling factor. After that each member was charged $5 a month for each truck and at last an additional levy was imposed of 1 cent for each barrel carried. Mr. Green said he refused to pay this tribute and Richter told him if he did not pay he would not be responsible for what happened.

Mr. Green maintained his right to withdraw from the organization and last week five men called at his office and beat him with iron bars, he said.

Truckmen and jobbers testified about Richter's organization of both branches of the business and said that increased retail prices were the direct result, the members passing along their association dues to the consumer.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday to permit Mr. Groat to make a personal inspection tomorrow and Saturday of the up-State milk shed in connection with an allied inquiry.

Lynchburg Road Row Ended.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 21 (Special).—The city council here today rescinded its former action favoring the old Forest road as an entrance for State Route 10 into the city and favored the Moorman route, the latter having been selected by the State highway commission. The vote was 4 to 3. This means the highway commission at once will begin work on the new entrance having $100,000 available for a start.

HYDE STOPS AT HARRISONBURG ON VIRGINIA DROUGHT SURVEY

Valley pike except to say it would be much less.

When he reached Harrisonburg late tonight Secretary Hyde asked to see Rockingham County Agricultural Agent S. M. Cox. Mr. Cox told the Secretary that the farmers of this section were hard hit and their hay crop had been practically destroyed by the drought, and need of hay by the farmers is urgent. Discussing the hay situation with Mr. Cox, Secretary Hyde declared $32.50 a ton for mixed was extremely high.

"We have enough hay in the United States to take care of our domestic needs without increasing our normal imports," said the Secretary. "Our crop this year will be around 95,000,000 tons, and we have a carry-over from last year of 12,500,000 tons. I think I am safe in saying that farmers in the valley can obtain clean alfalfa hay from Colorado or other Western States at $15 a ton, and with a freight rate of about $8 a ton it would cost them not more than $23 a ton."

Secretary Hyde declared that if hay dealers attempt to boost the price of hay through pools he wants reports of such instances made to him by the local people affected, and he will turn the cases over to the Department of Justice with the recommendation that the dealers be prosecuted under the Sherman antitrust act.

Discussing the drought situation with Representative Garber and other citizens who called to see him in Harrisonburg this evening, Secretary Hyde said he found the pasture situation in Virginia very bad. He declared that his own inspection revealed that more than half of the fields in the valley along the pike will produce nothing this year.

Advises on Loans.

The problem of financing farmers in need of stock feed, Secretary Hyde stated, can be done by the local banks rediscounting the farmer's note through the intermediate banks. In this way, he said, individual cases of farmers can be taken care of. He also said these loans can be obtained from the intermediate banks through cooperative organizations.

Secretary Hyde and his party left Harrisonburg late tonight.

(Associated Press.)

A tour of the drought devastated regions nearest the Nation's Capital to learn first hand the effect of the parching summer was begun yesterday by Secretary Hyde, chairman of the national drought-relief committee.

Leaving Washington, the Secretary contemplated driving through Shenandoah Valley, where the drought, to a large measure, is still unrelieved, and also planned to see other sections of Virginia and West Virginia.

There was no indication that an extension of the trip into other drought areas was in view. Mr. Hyde will return the first of next week. At that time he will confer with Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker, who will direct the coordination of financial aid for drought relief. Mr. Robinson will arrive Monday.

Meeting Here Tuesday.

Banking representatives on the State drought-relief committees have been called to Washington for a meeting next Tuesday to discuss the advisability of creating local and State credit corporations to lend money to farmers on easy terms through intermediate credit banks.

Secretary Hyde had no fixed itinerary on leaving Washington and had arranged for no conferences. He wanted no set program to hasten him or limit the time he might wish to spend in any specific region.

Assurance that the drought relief machinery will be functioning soon was given yesterday by Dr. C. W. Warburton, director of extension of the Departmnt of Agriculture.

In a radio address directed particularly to farmers in drought areas, Dr. Warburton told how contact might be made with relief organizations through county agents. He said there is "no occasion for any panic buying of feeds or selling of live stock."

PROJECTION UNION ENTERS MOVIE FIGHT

the theater owners of attempting to "replace the living, breathing spirit of music with a raucous, mechanical substitute."

The musicians' reply to the theater owners' demand for elimination of the contract clause regarding the number of men to be employed was as follows: "Stated in commercial terms, you insist on negotiating the price without promising to make a single purchase. In other words, you demand that we unqualifiedly bind ourselves in all that affects employment of our members without incurrence, on your part, of a single obligation."

A desire to cooperate with the owners in facing "the vicissitudes of the theatrical industry" was also expressed in the letter, but the musicians declared their stand with the statement that "we take most vigorous issue with the evident aim of your organization, which stripped of all softening verbiage and stated in its true sense, is the elimination of living music from the theater. Should you succeed in accomplishing this, you will have struck a deadly blow at the cultural life of our city—the Capital City of the United States."

Theater owners in their conferences with musicians have declared their willingness to negotiate a new contract with the union or even a new wage scale, provided the clause on number of men to be employed is eliminated.

A. Julian Brylawski, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association, and A. C. Hayden, president of the Musicians Protective Union, have both declared that they intend to stand firm in their beliefs in the present controversy.

POLLARD PREDICTS STRAIN UPON STATE

Severe Drought Aftermath Feared; Employes Urged to Use Economy.

SALARY RAISES OPPOSED

Richmond, Va., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The prediction that State finances will be taxed to the utmost as a result of the drought is made by Gov. Pollard in a letter to heads of State departments and institutions urging economy.

"You are no doubt familiar," said the governor's letter, "with the critical conditions which have gradually developed in this State from the combined effects of the business depression and severe drought. In some sections of the State crops are apparently almost a complete failure. Hardly any locality has escaped damage.

"It is inevitable that these conditions will have an adverse effect on State revenues. It is not improbable that the resources of the State treasury will be taxed to the utmost before the close of this biennium by the curtailment in revenue which must of necessity result from the heavy losses which have been suffered by the people of Virginia.

"Under these conditions, I am confident that you will agree with me that the utmost economy is imperative on the part of all our State agencies. With many of our people facing actual want, we should particularly endeavor to avoid at this time increased outlays for salaries of State employes. In business and industry it has unfortunately been necessary in some cases for salaries to be reduced and working forces curtailed. It seems reasonable, therefore, in view of these conditions to assume that our State employes should be content with present salaries and should not expect increases.

"Unless the emergency is very great, indeed, I am expressing the wish that you will cooperate with me in this matter by withholding all requests for salary increases until the distress which now confronts many of our people has been relieved. I shall appreciate any further assistance or suggestions you may care to extend at this time that would assist in relieving in any practicable way the serious economic problems which now confront the State and its people."

DRY AGENTS ON THE HIGHWAY.

Col. Woodcock has decided to equip automobiles used by dry agents with a large shield bearing the words: "Stop—United States Official Prohibition Officer—United States Department of Justice." This shield will be placed on the right side of the car, and will be called to the attention of motorists who are overtaken and halted by the agents.

This plan seems to be the most practical that has yet been suggested for identifying prohibition agents and for preventing bandits from impersonating such agents. A distinctive uniform was proposed, but nothing would be easier than for bandits to copy such uniforms and thereby delude motorists into facilitating their own holdups. A big car shield, however, is not so easily counterfeited, and its misuse could be more surely discovered and the perpetrators apprehended.

The next trouble that Col. Woodcock is likely to encounter is an abuse of the holdup authority by dry agents. They are a stupid lot, as a class, and they are apt to display their vanity by needlessly holding up motorists. Col. Woodcock should impress upon all dry agents the fact that the traveling public is entitled to the presumption of innocence—that motorists should never be stopped without reasonable cause. Fast driving is not a presumption that the driver is a bootlegger. Dry agents have no authority over traffic. It is their duty to avoid interference with traffic by obeying all traffic rules themselves. They should be warned against indulging in breakneck races with motorists whom they suspect. They can usually catch suspects by telephoning ahead to other agents. The highways should be free from deadly rum chases and gunplay endangering the lives of travelers.

GIFFORD PINCHOT'S FIGHT.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania made short work of the attempt to deprive Gifford Pinchot of 42,000 votes in Luzerne County, on the ground that perforation of the ballots had opened the door to possible fraud. The voters had used this kind of ballot in former elections, and there was no doubt that the ballots in the recent primary were honestly cast and counted. Pinchot received a plurality in Luzerne County, which gave him a plurality for the nomination for governor as a regular Republican.

So Gifford Pinchot stands as the regular Republican nominee. It is well that he should make the race thus, and not as a martyr who had been robbed of the Republican nomination. If he should win he will have earned his victory, and if he should lose it will be because the people of Pennsylvania do not want him, either as a Republican or an independent.

The wet movement in Pennsylvania is quite strong, and to the extent that it submerges other questions it will help John M. Hemphill, who is the candidate of the Democratic and Liberal parties. But this nonpartisan movement is strengthened in Mr. Hemphill's favor by the intense feeling against Mr. Pinchot that pervades the Republican party, especially in Philadelphia. They do not regard Mr. Pinchot as a Republican. In their opinion he is an opportunist who merely uses political parties for his personal advantage.

Republican scratching of Pinchot's name in November will probably obscure the real meaning of the election, so far as the wet and dry controversy is concerned. If Pinchot should be beaten the wets will have difficulty in proving that it was solely because of the popular growth of their cause.

FOURTH OFFENDERS.

The defect of the laws penalizing habitual criminals, of which the Baumes law in New York State is the shining example, is that they do not work in practice as well as they sound in theory. It seems only right that society should protect itself to the extent of putting permanently behind prison bars those who have shown by frequent offenses that they are not capable of living peacefully with their fellow men. But, in administering the fourth offender law, one injustice after another has come to light. Moreover, juries have proved reluctant to convict when conviction for a minor felony means life imprisonment. Third offenders caught in their fourth crime have shown a tendency to fight desperately against arrest, and those under life sentence have proved to be an unmanageable group that foments riots and murder in prisons.

The practical shortcomings of the habitual criminal act have led to a demand that it be made somewhat less severe. Last year a bill to this end was introduced in the New York State Legislature, but it failed of enactment, largely because Senator Baumes, chairman of the State Crime Commission, took a stand in opposition. Senator Baumes now comes forward with a plan for modifying the fourth-offender act, which would hold open the possibility of limited and supervised parole for second, third and even fourth offenders, in which the State would at all times retain jurisdiction over a man convicted more than once. Senator Baumes' advocacy of such modification indicates that it will be acted upon favorably by the next Legislature.

It would be interesting to see how a modified habitual criminal act would work. Society no longer holds it desirable to incarcerate a man as punishment alone. The modern view is that criminals should be restrained only until they have proved that they are capable of returning to civil life and living peaceably with their fellow men. Even the fourth offender, if he has been cured, has earned his release. But the fourth offender, as a rule, is incurable. It has yet to be proved that holding out the hope of parole will be sufficient to cause him to go straight.

THE LOUISIANA SENATORSHIP.

The country looks with interest at the campaign that is developing in Louisiana, in which Gov. Huey P. Long challenges Joseph E. Ransdell for the seat in the Senate which Mr. Ransdell has occupied since 1913.

In every instance in which a senator acquires a national stature by reason of long service coupled with ability and industry the people of the United States are more than detached spectators in his campaign for reelection. Their own interests are affected. The experience gained by a national lawmaker has been paid for by the United States, and is a national asset. It should not be lightly thrown away merely because another man desires the seat. The country's welfare requires the exercise of ripe judgment by its senators, who are more than agents of their States. They are a part of the Government itself.

Senator Ransdell has served his State and the country with exceptional ability and devotion. His leadership in certain fields is undisputed, notably in the expansion of national waterways and the promotion of public health. He has not exploited himself, but has worked indefatigably to put through proposals which would benefit the entire country as well as his own State and the South. His influence with his colleagues is potent because of his ability to make friends. No member of the Senate enjoys greater popularity or commands greater confidence in Congress than Senator Ransdell.

The methods employed by Gov. Long do not commend him to the Nation. His vituperative attacks upon Senator Ransdell are resented by the national public, which long ago formed an accurate estimate of the Louisiana senator. The people at large do not concern themselves with the local questions of Louisiana, and do not question the exclusive right of that State's voters to choose their own senator without outside advice, but the opinions already expressed in various parts of the United States are evidence of the general hope that Louisiana voters will be on guard against sacrificing a national public servant of conspicuous usefulness for the sake of elevating to the Senate a man who has yet to prove his fitness for that place.

RAIDING HOMES.

It ought not to be necessary for the United States District Attorney to dismiss prohibition cases because the defendants have been arrested illegally. Officers are supposed to know the law, and to enforce it only through legal means.

For several months Assistant United States Attorney Hart has been trying to impress upon raiding officers the necessity of securing search warrants before entering a home. Maj. Pratt has instructed his men to use only legal means in bringing law violators to justice. Why do officers persist in disregarding orders and violating the law?

Mr. Hart is fully justified in throwing out of court those cases arising from raids without warrants. There is no reason why the law can not be enforced without encroachment upon the rights of citizens. The sanctity of the home is one of the cardinal principles in American jurisprudence. Any officer who enters a dwelling without warrant is committing a serious offense, and ought to be punished for it.

Officers who made the illegal raids have been reprimanded by Maj. Pratt, and instructions against raiding homes without warrants have again been issued. It remains to be seen whether these measures will be sufficient to restrain some of Washington's overzealous officers. Offenses of this kind call for more than mere reprimands.

GERARD'S LIST OF RULERS.

The invisible hand that rules America has at last been exposed. The power behind the throne is wielded almost exclusively by bankers and capitalists. James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, has set down their names in bold-faced type. Strangely enough, this coterie of 59 does not include the President of the United States, and embraces only one member of his Cabinet—the Secretary of the Treasury. No senator or other official can be numbered among the powerful ones. The list includes not the men elected by the people, but only those "who rule by virtue of their ability." "They themselves," Mr. Gerard explains, "are too busy to hold political office, but they determine who shall hold office."

These men do not act in concert to direct the destinies of the country, according to Mr. Gerard, and they are not conscious of the fact that they rule America, which proves that power and stupidity are running mates. Mr. Gerard seems to be the only person who realizes that 59 wealthy individuals hold America in the hollow of their hands.

Apparently Mr. Gerard left President Hoover out of the list because Mr. Hoover was elected over the opposition of some of the individuals who are supposed to rule America. Mr. Hoover is the exception, of course.

Mr. Gerard's theory fits in well with the ingenious plan recently announced whereby financiers and industrial chiefs were to make war impossible. All that would be necessary, it was pointed out, would be the refusal of these powers to cooperate in making war. Money and materials would be withheld. But it is a false assumption. The last war serves to illustrate how quickly capital and industry can be commandeered to serve the common need. The bankers of Europe were anything but "rulers" when war broke out. If a crisis should come the real rulers of the United States—the people—would soon put every individual in his place, whether he is included in the Gerard hall of fame or excluded from that glorious brotherhood.

POLICE RADIO.

Those who doubt the usefulness of police radio should have their doubts resolved by an arrest that was made the other day in Cleveland. A man looked out of his bedroom window and saw two suspicious characters engaged in sawing a hole through the roof of a brass foundry. He notified police. Immediately headquarters communicated over its radio with a cruising police car. Three minutes later the car drove up to the door of the foundry and police captured the robbers as they walked out, their arms loaded down with brass fittings.

The installation of a local police broadcasting station and of equipping patrol cars with receiving sets should be expedited. In every police jurisdiction in which radio has been put to work it has added to the effectiveness of the police. Today's criminal is as well equipped for his work as are the police. He possesses the same weapons. He uses high-speed automobiles for his escape. He strikes quickly and leaves the scene of his crime without delay, so that there is a time element favoring his escape. The radio, as applied to police work, reduces and sometimes destroys this favorable time element. The sooner the local installation is completed the better.

A bill is said to be pending in the Polish Parliament to require all citizens to bathe at least once each week. No wonder Poland has to have a corridor to the sea.

Somewhere between Tom Thumb and Bobby Jones there must be such a thing as ordinary golf. A hundred million dubs are trying to find out what it is.

THE RIGHT OF WAY

By HAROLD G. HOFFMAN.
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, of New Jersey, in United States Daily.

The right-of-way rule is perhaps the most fundamental in the whole body of motor vehicle regulations, yet it is the one that is too frequently disregarded, often with serious consequences.

In this State the rule is the one that is laid down quite generally, that "every driver of a vehicle when entering or crossing any intersection shall grant the right of way at all times to any vehicle approaching from his right."

This is plain enough. There should be no confusion as to terms. The driver approaching on the right is the one who should be allowed to cross the intersection first, yet how often does one see two cars, with bumpers almost touching, standing at an intersection as if there were no regulation which gave one the priority over the other?

There is no reason why there should be any misunderstanding on this point. And perhaps it isn't all misunderstanding, but carelessness on the part of some motorists who conveniently forget the regulations when they know them well enough. It can't be anything else, unless it is a case of the other driver speeding into the intersection at an excessive rate. But it is more common for the man who is stealing the right of way to be doing the speeding. And it is just such instances which I have in mind.

If the right-of-way regulation were observed generally we would have fewer accidents and a much smoother flow of traffic whether on city street or rural highway. Why? Simply because it would be in fact a case of traffic regulating itself. Of course, I am not trying to paint the picture altogether black by implying that there is virtually no observance of this law. If that were the case we would simply have to throw up our hands in despair. But whereas one robin does not make a spring, a single violation of the right-of-way rule can temporarily jar the entire scheme of regulation.

The danger following such a violation is so immediate that it is quite different from other infractions of the traffic code. A car may stand on the street for several hours over the parking limit and no harm will be done to life or property. The same is true of a number of other violations of the law which, because of the circumstances at the time, do not threaten any individual or his property. But with right of way it is vastly different. Here we have two vehicles traveling into an intersection in such a way that they come together with little space for stopping.

They must be under control, but even that is not enough to avoid an accident. The one driver must be given precedence, otherwise it would be a continuous contest. Of course, that is what happens in too many instances. There are certain motorists who show by their actions, at least, that their definition of right of way is that the driver who gets there first and can bluff the other fellow successfully has the right to cross.

It is not a question of the driver who has the right of way making a vigorous effort to make certain that he gets it, but rather that the man in the vehicle to his left yields it in such a way that there will be no possibility of confusion. With such a rule, well observed, traffic becomes less of a game of chance and more an orderly movement of vehicles.

BALLADE OF THE SHOWER BATH.

When I have done with swat and swath
And counted up my feeble score,
Then comes the time to take the bath

What matter if my game be sour,
Not even Bobby Jones, I say,
Than I can more enjoy a shower!

And make the longest holes in "four."

There are no blunders to deplore.
Though all my drives have gone astray,
And shown an utter lack of power
No golfer in the world today

If We All Journey to the Same Place, Why Doubt That We Shall Meet Again?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A MAN whose only daughter is near death writes to ask me for some word of comfort or philosophy that will preserve the sanity of his tortured mind if his treasure is taken away.

Twenty years ago a traveling salesman, waiting to board a train at a small town west of Pittsburgh, was knocked down by a locomotive and dragged under the wheels. Both legs were cut off above the knee.

He died before a doctor was found, but while life remained he kept a clear mind. Propped against the wall of the station, he wrote farewell telegrams to his loved ones until the pencil dropped from his hand.

The shock of his hurt numbed his senses so that he felt no pain.

In similar fashion a merciful nature deadens the sensibilities to make the anguish of sorrow endurable.

When death robs us of a child or a life-long comrade, there is no immediate realization of our loss but only a numbness of mind and body.

For hours or days or weeks, we live in a kind of stupor—doing mechanically the things we have to do—dazed and lost until our minds slowly adjust themselves to a new world. We survive our loss because we can not comprehend it.

It is when the mind clears and remembrance comes with the sharpness of a knife thrust that we have need of philosophy. We never wholly recover and we never forget. As long as memory lasts, sunsets and moonlight and the sound of rain on the roof will bring to us again the breath-taking pang of loneliness.

But reason tempers the wind of sorrow and a reasonable hope brings peace to the tortured mind.

Belief in immortality is as natural to man as the belief that he will awake from sleep.

In all ages and in all lands the cultured and the primitive, instructed by reason or by instinct, have consigned their dead to the earth in the blessed assurance that time would bring a reunion in some happier land.

The fact of life is proof of its perpetuity, for in the whole plan of nature there is no destruction of anything but only infinite change.

Loved ones are lost a little while, but we shall see them again as surely as the raindrops that fall today shall appear in the sky again to make another rainbow.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

IMA DODO INSPECTS THE YACHTS.

Dear Editor—Well, I have been down to see those yachts which will be in the international cup race and they were a big disappointment to me. I don't see what difference it will make which boat wins, as they are all equally uncomfortable and I wouldn't give you a dime for the bunch. I am surprised that the papers don't tell the people the truth about these boats, which is that they lack all accommodations you expect in ships these days and that they are the last boats you would pick to go any place by water.

* * * *

I saw the American defenders (the entire squadron), but I could not see any difference between the Enterprise, the Weetamoe, the Whirlwind and the Yankee, except that the Yankee is the most stationary and the best boat to get on if you are not in any hurry. Anyhow, these ships are mostly masts and you get the same impression you would get if you stuck an umbrella into a cake of soap. It looks to me like it was really an international mast contest.

* * * *

As I say, all the American yachts look alike, so I will just describe the Enterprise, because when you have seen one cup defender you have seen them all. Well, she is just a long, skinny boat that a girl could have no fun on whatsoever if she was used to all the comforts of life. There are no rattan chairs on the deck and no ashtrays, and, what is worse, there is no iron rail to lean on, which is very important if you are going to be out in rough weather much or any.

* * * *

There is no newsstand anywhere on the boat where you can get magazines or chocolates, the staterooms are little cubbyholes, with no light or air and, believe it or not, there is no ship's orchestra. Imagine going for a ride on a boat which did not even have a violinist and accordion player!

* * * *

Well, anyway, after seeing the American boats I thought maybe Sir Thomas Lipton would have something better, but I found it the same thing, only I am fond of green and liked the color better. The deck of the Shamrock is kept bare, too, so nobody can sit down or take a nap, and there are no quoit games or shuffleboard. You can get an idea what a smart man Sir Thomas is from the fact that while the Shamrock crossed the ocean he came over on a regular liner and will not even ride on the Shamrock V during the races. It is things like that that account for his 80 years, and if he avoids traveling on cup racers he should live to be a hundred.

Yours truly,
IMA DODO.

HOW IT'S DONE.

There was a young producer
Who had a stupid show;
It was so dull and common
He thought it wouldn't go.

He had the coppers raid it
And threaten him with jail,
Which simple action made it
A show that can not fail.

It is reported that the "King of the Bricklayers" is to buy the Giants. As long as the Emperor of the Pop Bottles isn't let in, it's all right with us.

"I am quitting lawn tennis because I do not want to become a tennis bum,"—George M. Lott. You're not pointing at anybody, are you, George?

"Market Turns Bullish on Light Rainfall."—Headline. Ima Dodo, who is writing market letters for a brokerage house, immediately got out a sheet advising customers to get aboard before a heavy shower is discounted.

Elmer Twitchell's ambition is to see Capt. Hawkes in automobile traffic waiting for the red light to change.

A broker was arrested in New York the other day for riding a horse at a rate of 30 miles an hour. He was probably trying to make it reach 100 and then merge it with an airplane.

"A woman congressman will be unconvincing," says Elmer Twitchell "until she invites a fellow member to step outside and take a punch in the eye."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Chinese Slums of Pennsylvania Avenue Shocking to Visitors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: People from various States visiting Washington are shocked after a brief walk along Pennsylvania avenue. The much-heralded Avenue of Presidents is a distinct disappointment. A recent visitor to Washington stopped me in the street a few days ago, to give some of his impressions after he had taken a survey of the Capital. He was a middle-aged man, well dressed and had an air of prosperity.

"Pennsylvania avenue," he explained, "is nothing like what I had pictured it. Instead of fine rows of buildings of uniform height which I had anticipated seeing, I was treated to the spectacle of a miserable-looking slum."

I tried to explain what he had seen was Washington's Chinatown, in whose intricate cellars and mysterious passageways, hidden away from the gaze of the outer world, many plots are hatched from time to time, over the dope pipe, by lamblike appearing Orientals who, when their legitimate business is dull (provided they have any) sell opium to white addicts to increase their revenues.

"Well, if that is Pennsylvania avenue," replied the visitor, in disgust, "I don't want to see it again."

RUDOLPH PARSONS.

South America May Be Afraid the United States Will Jettison the Monroe Doctrine.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Criticizing Dr. James Brown Scott for misinterpreting the Monroe Doctrine before the Institute of Public Affairs, you say:

"A more enlightened attitude toward the doctrine is much to be desired. It contains nothing unfriendly to Latin America, but continued reference to it as a badge of dishonor leaves a bad taste in the mouths of the southern republics."

Permit me to ask whether certain developments in ths country within recent years may not account to some extent for the offish attitude of South American thinkers. In view of the strong movement favorable to participation of the United States in Old World politics is it astonishing that they should become dubious and watch their step when the question of the Monroe Doctrine is broached?

FEDERALIST.

Chinese in United States Should Be Registered.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The smuggling of Chinese into this country can be very easily controlled and the crime arising out of this source eliminated by the recording of each and every Chinese at the present time within this country. A record book of the same type as a soldier's service book could be kept with photograph and physical measurements, finger prints and individual history. A yearly inspection of the Chinese or the demanding of the book upon request by the police authorities would readily show the right of any Chinese to remain in this country or be immediately deported as an alien.

E. CARPENTER.

Public Reaction Will Determine Question of Orchestras in Movie Theaters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The differences between the musicians and the moving picture theaters will be settled eventually by the real boss of the industry, which is the public. If houses which formerly supported large orchestras and stage shows witness a sufficiently sharp decline in attendance, means will be found to bring the musicians back. If they do not, it is proof that there is no need to bring them back. The musicians must bow to the public will, just as the managers must do.

The public will decide.

W. A. ANTRIM.

SPEED COURSES.

The British are a sports-loving race and it rolls them that her famous motor racers, dead and alive, Seagrave, Kay Don, et al., should have found it necessary to visit America to find a race course straightaway and long enough for high-speed tests. The sands at Daytona, Fla., observes the New Orleans Times-Picayune, have been thus far accepted as the best available for the supreme speedway of the automobile world. But this may be changed and England's spirit relieved by a plan now under way at Skegness, England. At that point there has been made a national, or as it is termed in England, a treasury grant, to the Automobile Racing Association of 8,000 acres along the coast. The association is negotiating for 2,000 other acres, now privately held, and on the total tract plans to build a straight track of concrete 15 miles long and 200 yards wide. The necessary breakwaters will make this track by far the longest and finest in the world and it may, when it is completed, become necessary for American racers to carry their cars to Skegness if they hope to break records.

DON'T LOSE YOUR HEELS.

In pioneer days, says the Ohio State Journal, the belief prevailed that if a man was struck by lightning the heels of his boots were knocked off. Around the fireplace and in the village store that contention was made by men who insisted they knew its truth. The theory was that the boot heel provided an outlet for the current and, when the heels were blown off, the deadly current escaped and left the man safe.

An Associated Press dispatch tells of Dr. B. T. Johnson, of Bluffton, Ga., being struck by lightning, knocking him over, but not killing him. He appeared lame when friends helped him to his feet. Then it was discovered his shoe heels had been knocked off.

If the story is merely a nature fake, such as comes with each season of dog days, at least it has great persistence. If, in fact, the heels are knocked off, can any one provide a reason for that peculiar display of power? It seems like stories will repeat themselves, as history does.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Mrs. Rogers Confers With Mr. Hoover

Wants Idle Dollars Put to Work to Lessen Unemployment.

By JEAN ELIOT.

INTERRUPTING a summertime sojourn at her home in Lowell, Mass., Representative Edith Nourse Rogers came to Washington for a conference with President Hoover, but returned to Massachusetts last night after a brief stay in town. She is unopposed in the primary, which will be held on September 16, but is already laying the ground work for her campaign for reelection, with "Buy It Now" as her campaign slogan.

With the interests of her constituents much at heart, Mrs. Rogers is enthusiastically keen over a movement to relieve industrial depression by putting idle dollars to work and promoting business activity. Moreover, being a person of diverse enthusiasms, she is also organizing an antifly and moth campaign. Last summer she helped wage a war on rats with so much success that through Massachusetts she was known as "the lady Pied Piper."

In Washington interest is keen in the campaign activities of the feminine bloc on Capitol Hill—Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, who aspires to be the first woman elected to the Senate; Mrs. Rogers, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Representative Florence P. Kahn and the rest, who are up for reelection. Moreover, there is another woman, whose smart chapeau is in the ring and for whom the Capital can muster a large group of vocal, if nonvoting, rooters. She is Inetta Jewell, a famous footlight favorite of a decade—or two—ago, who is Democratic candidate for Congress from the Schenectady district of New York.

In private life this quondam actress, who was the popular leading lady of Poli's Stock Company years ago, is Mrs. Hugh Miller, wife of the professor of civil engineering at Union College, Schenectady. The widow of Representative William G. Brown, of West Virginia, Mrs. Miller transferred her allegiance to New York with her second marriage. She has long been active in Democratic party politics, first in West Virginia and later nationally.

She made a seconding speech for Mr. John W. Davis in the historic Democratic convention in New York in 1924, when he was nominated for the presidency after the prolonged struggle in which "Alabama casts 24 votes for Oscar Underwood" became a national by-word. Since then she has taken part in many campaigns for others, but, if memory serves, this is the first time she has gone campaigning on her own. As a speaker, she is something of a spell binder.

The marriage of Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown and Dr. Miller took place in April, 1927, with a picturesque ceremony in the garden of Mrs. Alvin Dodd's Georgetown residence. Since then Mrs. Miller has made only occasional short visits to the Capital, but she would be welcomed back right royally as a permanent resident.

GAS LINE EXTENSION IN MARYLAND ASKED

Washington Company Seeks to Serve Seat Pleasant and Capitol Heights.

COLUMBIA TIE-UP DENIED

Permission to extend gas service to Seat Pleasant, Tuxedo, Capitol Heights and Maryland Park, Md., was asked of the Public Service Commission of Maryland by officers of the Washington Gas Light Co. at a public hearing in Baltimore yesterday.

George A. G. Wood, president of the company, told the Maryland commission that a survey showed that more than 1,100 families are "expected to benefit from the extension of the mains." If the permit is granted, it was added, the company plans to lay 96,000 additional feet of mains at a cost of $150,000.

Lateral District Mains.

Lateral mains will be laid in the District to serve 500 families which are now unable to get gas service, Mr. Wood said.

The proposed extension, a statement by the company said, is part of a $1,000,000 plan of expansion by the gas company to increase business in order to offset the reduction of income which will be brought about when the present rates are cut. A new rate schedule is to be filed with the District utilities commission within the next week.

Mr. Wood yesterday took occasion to deny published statements that the same interests owned or controlled the Washington company and the Columbia Gas & Electric Co., from a subsidiary of which the local company is planning to get a supply of natural gas.

All Connection Denied.

"I wish to state at this time that there is absolutely no connection directly or indirectly between the two organizations or the holding company that had a substantial interest in the Columbia Gas & Electric Co. and the Massachusetts Trust which owns the majority of the stock of the Washington Gas Light Co.," Mr. Wood said.

He was anxious, he explained, that the Washington public be not misinformed about the Washington gas company which is endeavoring to win public confidence and trust.

KELLOGG NOMINATED FOR WORLD COURT

it might refrain from putting forward the name of an American for the World Court.

This would have been considered a grave loss to the strength and prestige of the International Court. In league circles today considerable satisfaction was expressed on receipt of the announcement of the Kellogg nomination.

This satisfaction became all the greater when the belief gained ground his election to the World Court would strengthen the sentiment in America for entry of the United States to the court when the question comes up before Congress in December.

Mr. Kellogg has been nominated for both the full term and the uncompleted term by several governments which are members of the league.

When the American committee presented its nomination it followed the customary procedure of naming three citizens of other countries. One of these is Mineichiro Adachi, former Japanese Ambassador to France, and long a worker for international understanding; another is Dionisio Anzilotti, of Italy, who now is president of the World Court, and the third is Max Hubert, of Switzerland, vice president of the court. M. Hubert recently said he did not desire reelection.

An interesting feature of the coming election will be the efforts of the Latin-American bloc to obtain the election of three Latin-Americans to the court. This group now has two members on the bench.

IT'S A KNOCK-OUT!

Don't wait until it is too late!

When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous

A fact you should not overlook

MORE red-cells in the blood! Good health and resistance to infection and disease, depend on that. If a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA often results.

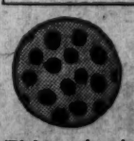
S.S.S. should be your safeguard. A hundred years of experience has proved its usefulness in building red-cells in the blood. Take it before meals. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to restore their red-blood-cells. The appetite picks up, the whole body is strengthened, invigorated! Get S.S.S.—take it and possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Ask for the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

How to recognize a low blood count

Blood is Life! You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

You can recognize a lowered count by the way you look and feel—such as body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, boils and pimples. They may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. If your vitality and clear skin are slipping away from you, try S.S.S.



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to every cubic millimeter.

(Right) Anemic red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

A $50,000 Check.

Joe tugged ruthlessly at the doors of the little cabinet, swollen and warped by years of neglect, and abruptly they swung, revealing to eager eyes only a small cavern of darkness.

"Nothing there?" inquired the tired voice from the sofa. "I fear the gods aren't very kindly disposed to us tonight. Well, Ross, what kind of a lock is it?"

"It's a padlock," said Tom Ross, coming slowly into the room. "Rather a large padlock, on a pair of good solid iron staples."

"Rather a large padlock," repeated Gavin thoughtfully. "And I suppose you had the key for it, Sheridan?"

"Oh, you know damn well I didn't have the key for it." Sherry's voice, sullen and despairing, rose from the corner by the door, where he sat huddled wretchedly at the deserted card table, his forehead resting on his linked hands.

"You're right—I know damn well that you haven't got it," agreed Gavin Dart grimly. "And if it comes to that, I know damn well that you were never anywhere near the attic. Furthermore, I strongly suspect that you were right here in this room."

Sherry, not lifting his head, said tonelessly: "All right; you win. I wasn't in the attic and I was in the room, and am a liar. Does that make me a murderer? It didn't make Hanna one."

"Nor you, Sheridan. If that were all in the balance against you, you'd still be safe as most of us here. It was you who brushed by Chatty in the north corridor, too, wasn't it?"

"You know it was—what are you asking me for?"

Incapable of Murder.

"I'd like to keep the record straight if possible. And just so that everything will be perfectly clear, suppose you tell us why you've been telling us lies as fast as you could talk for the last two or three hours?"

"Because I'm a coward," said Sherry, with curious distinctness. He rose, swaying a little, and came toward the group near the fire, catching uncertainly at the backs of chairs, a sorry travesty of his erstwhile dapper self. "Because I'm a coward and a liar and a fool. Trudi'll back me up on that, too, won't you, Trudi?"

Trudi said somberly: "I'll back you up on anything, if you'll keep quiet."

"Sorry, old girl—I can't very well keep quiet until I've proved to the grand inquisitioner here that good-hearted, thick-headed jackasses don't go around murdering their best pals. You still rather think that I did it?"

"Rather," concurred Dart laconically.

"Gavin, you can't be such a lunatic," said Trudi dispassionately. "Entirely aside from the fact that Sherry is congenitally incapable of hurting a kitten, there's the other fact that he was mad about Doug, really mad about him. You're wasting what may be invaluable time trying to fit Sherry into this simply because he's a coward. He's told you so himself. He can't bear pain or trouble or danger. When he saw himself headed for all three of them he lost his head and lied. The attic was the farthest place away from all of them that he could think of—and so he put himself in the attic. You can't hang a man for losing his head; and the only scrap of evidence that you have against him is that he's lied to you."

"No, no, Trudi—that's where you're wrong. I have two other scraps of evidence against him." He opened his hand, and two oblongs of white paper fluttered down to the table. "These two. Would you like to see them?"

They crowded forward, silent and intent, scrutinizing the bits of paper with eyes stupefied with fatigue.

The oblong at the right was a check for $50,000, dated October 31, and signed with Neill Sheridan's sprawling, schoolboy signature. And the envelope at the left bore the same amorphus and juvenile scrawl. It read: "Doug, you may call this a loan, but you damn well know what I call it. And I swear to God that I'll make you see it my way before we're through. S."

"Well, Sheridan?"

"Well, what?"

"Have you any explanation?"

"Naturally I've got an explanation. But first you might give me one as to how you got hold of them."

"I'll be delighted to. The check was in a wallet that slipped off the sofa onto the chapel floor, while we were moving it in. I found the note pinned on the pillow in King's room while Ray and I were patroling the house. Now let's hear yours."

Oil in Panama.

"All right; get it straight." He pushed the nearest oblong toward Dart with an impatient thumb. "I gave Doug that check this evening, before dinner. He was flat broke—not that any of you give a damn about that. He lost close to every nickel he had when the boom crashed in Miami and Palm Beach—had to sell out everything in the world but the shirt off his back and the links in his cuffs, and he's been up against it ever since. Well, yesterday he got wind of something that's going to recoup the whole damn thing. They've struck oil on one of the old Panama plantations, and they agreed to let him in again on the ground floor if he could raise $150,000 by the end of the week. I've been flourishing around a bit on the exchange lately and $50,000 was the best I could manage. I wish to God I could have made it all."

"I see. What plantation was it that had struck oil?"

"He didn't say; he'd sworn not to tell a soul. If it got out the stock would go up like a skyrocket naturally."

"Naturally • • • So you handed him over $50,000 in spite of the fact that you were rather pinched yourself. Now the note, Sheridan."

"Well, I wanted Doug to take the damned $50,000 as a present." He drew the back of his hand across the reddened eyes, and glared defiance into the grim skepticism of the face across the table. "Oh sure, I know it sounds fishy, but it's God truth. You know a whole lot, Dart, but you don't know the only things that matter. You don't know that I owe every last penny I have in the world to Doug King, and that, thanks to him, I own enough stock in some of those plantations down there to make a dollar for every cent I've got if we ever strike oil. If Doug hadn't tipped me off ten years ago to put every nickel I could get into the Bonita and Ventura plantation, I wouldn't have been in any position to give him $50,000 tonight, or to lend them to him either. He insisted on giving me his personal note for the check and he said he had some mortgages to turn over to me for security. I tore up the note and wrote that thing there to let him know again that I wanted the money to be a gift free and clear—I knew he was worried sick about the whole thing and I thought that if I couldn't get another talk with him this evening it might buck him up to find the note on his pillow when he turned in. And that's all there is to that • • • except that he didn't turn in. Too simple for you, by a long shot, isn't it?"

"Blackmail" Suggested.

"I had something even simpler," said Gavin Dart, his eyes on the white slips. "Blackmail."

"Blackmail? What in hell are you talking about?"

"You and King were mixed up in some fairly shady deals at the outset of this highly successful career of yours, weren't you, Sheridan?"

"You——"

"Easy does it, my dear fellow. I don't know much about your affairs, I confess, but I've made a point of learning all that I could about Doug King this last year • • • and I've learned quite a bit. He's been slipping from one disreputable proposition to another for a good ten years—and it's your wife who assures me that both of you were as thick as thieves. Now let's see how my theory works out. Suppose that at some past period you had been—well—indiscreet enough to have gone in with Doug in one of his less savory enterprises. Suppose that he, desperate as he was for money, decided to remind you of that fact and of the damage that publicity as to it might do to you—suppose he pointed out that for $50,000 there wouldn't be any publicity • • • Now then—this note of yours, 'Doug, you may call this a loan, but you damn well know what I call it. And I swear to God that I'll make you see it my way before we're through.' Read from my point of view it might turn from a generous reassurance to a rather ugly threat, mightn't it? Let's go a little further, let's suppose that you overheard Jill making her rendezvous with Doug on the sofa and came down here to see whether you couldn't persuade him that you needed that $50,000 as much as he did, and that blackmail wasn't a safe game to play with you for what might well be the rest of your life. Suppose that in groping your way into the room your hand came in contact with that table by the door—the card table that had the knife on it. Suppose that under that hand you felt the knife that——"

Sherry, his clay-colored countenance suddenly and violently congested, pounded the table before him.

"Shut up, will you? Shut up before I do something you'll be sorry for."

"I shouldn't go in for threats much just now, if I were you, Sheridan. I think that under the circumstances they make a bad impression. Suppose you tell us something about this old Panama proposition. • • • It was your law firm that approved the legal aspects of the stock issues of the Bonita and Ventura plantations, wasn't it?"

Sherry twisted in his chair, his frantic eyes seeking for some one. They came to rest just short of the shadows near the door, where Tom Ross stood, pale and shabby, his arm about Chatty, his blue eyes chilled.

"Oh, there you are! I was wondering why you weren't in on this—you're the guy I have to thank for it all, aren't you? Well, come on over here now and tell 'em all about how once upon a time you lifted up your hand and swore never to break a professional confidence. We're all due for a good long laugh about this time. Come on and give it to us, there's a good fellow."

A Boundary Dispute.

Tom Ross removed his arm very gently from the small figure beside him and came forward toward the fire, Chatty pattering docilely at his heels, her woe-begone countenance too heavily statured in misery for this last indignity even to stir it.

"Wrong again, Sherry. I'm precisely as much of an ass today as I was ten years ago; Dart went elsewhere for his information."

Gavin Dart said smoothly:

"I'm afraid your nerves aren't at all what they ought to be, Sheridan. You're confounded jumpy—especially jumpy when it comes to conclusions. As a matter of fact, my investigations of Doug King's career took me straight back to Panama itself, and I found out all I wanted to know right there—and a bit over for luck. Im right about the firm of Maury, Kountz, Sheridan & Ross vouching for the legal aspects of the issue, am I not, Ross?"

"Entirely right," said Tom Ross, in a voice as colorless as his face.

"You were fully aware at the time that you approved these facts of the boundary dispute that was taking place between the governments of Costa Rica and Panama?"

"Fully aware."

"And you knew that if the Costa Rican government could prove its claims, not a share of that stock was worth the paper it was printed on?"

"We knew that, too."

"Listen to me for a moment, will you?" demanded Sherry frantically. "We weren't passing on their damned title. It was up to those fellows down there to search that, and they did search it, and it was good, wasn't it? It was good as gold; better. Doug wasn't hiring a bunch of detectives; he was hiring a law firm."

"Still, if you'd gone to the trouble to investigate, you'd have found that the chances were about ten to one on Costa Rica."

"About twenty to one," corrected Ross quickly.

"Not a pretty business, Ross?"

"Not so very pretty, agreed Tom Ross. He glanced up swiftly, met Chatty's tragic and bewildered eyes, and gave her a strange little smile, tender and consoling, at which her lips curved a tremulous and obedient reply.

Trudi leaned forward abruptly. "Wait a minute, Gavin, Tom, when did this plantation thing come up?"

"Some time in 1919, I believe."

"Just before you left the firm?"

"Why, yes, Trudi; just before I left the firm."

"I see • • •" said Trudi. "That was it, of course. Why didn't you tell Gavin why you left the firm, Tom?"

"I didn't think that it would interest him."

Sherry, shaken by an immense, an appalling bitterness: "Oh, I think it would interest him, all right. And I think you know why."

"Stu" Hawley in a stock Buick Eight-66S set a new east-to-west and return record, beating the amazing time established by "Cannon Ball" Baker by more than fifteen hours.

This remarkable run, seventeen hours faster than the fastest train time, is a mighty tribute to the staming of the man, the car and the crack-proof Texaco Golden Motor Oil which cooled and lubricated the tireless engine throughout the grueling drive.

CYCLAMEN THE SECOND SEASON.

IF you are one of the persons who saved cyclamen bulbs from last season in order to have more of the soft pink blossoms this coming winter, bring them out of their hiding place at this time and begin to coax them into growth.

Florists rarely use cyclamen bulbs the second year, preferring to use new bulbs. Of course, growing bulbs commercially is quite different from growing one or two bulbs for house use, for florists must grow plants which will yield large dividends, and cyclamen bulbs seldom bloom as profusely the second season as they did the first year. But in the case of the home gardener it is a case of a few flowers being better than no flowers, and sometimes cyclamen do even better the second year than they did the first.

If you had your bulb in the cellar, bring it up at this time and clean the outside of the pot. Next, remove any dead foliage and then proceed to renew one-third of the soil in the pot with fresh loam, with which you have mixed a generous quantity of bonemeal or manure. Do this carefully so that you do not disturb the bulb, and when this step in the work is finished move the plant to a place on your porch where it will have only morning sun.

The cyclamen, coming from the marshy places in Germany and Panama, does not take kindly to too much sun. It is not particular regarding temperature, and for that reason it makes as admirable a house plant as does the geranium. It will grow contentedly in a temperature of 60 degrees. If the room where it is growing gets over 70 degrees the flowers will become "soft," meaning that the stems lose their stability, and the flowers, instead of being erect, begin to droop.

Water your cyclamen once each day, giving a sufficient amount at each application to moisten all the soil in the pot. Never, however permit the water to lie on the leaves or collect about the crown of the plant. If it does, it will start a disease known as the "rot," a disease without a cure. Always, to avoid this tragedy, pour the water over the soil.

Always keep a cyclamen in a place where there is plenty of fresh air. Never keep it standing in a jardiniere in which there is water, for while it demands plenty of water it abhors "wet feet."

A bulb started into growth at this time should be in bloom for Christmas.

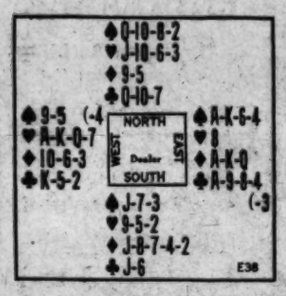
All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

The following hand was played in a contest on one of the evenings of the teachers' conference in Chicago. It is interesting as exemplifying the rewards which at times attend bold bidding and brilliant play. The cards were distributed as follows:



South passed and West bid one Heart. North passed and East faced an interesting situation because she hardly would dare to bid more than three No Trumps and yet her hand presents slam possibilities; therefore she chose the expedient of bidding two Spades. This declaration was a jump-shift to a suit; and that, whether made over partner's suit or No Trump, is a command to partner to bid again if the next opponent pass.

When South passed, West answered with two No Trumps to show something in addition to the Hearts; and after North's pass, East could have bid three No Trumps, but she was out after bigger game. As Spades did not suit West, it seemed desirable to try Clubs, and to give further intimation that East was anxious to slam and to ask for another bid from West; so East jump-shifted to four Clubs. If West had bid four No Trumps this time, East would have passed; but West bid five Clubs to signify that her strength outside of the Hearts was in the Club suit. Thereupon East ventured the bid of six Clubs.

In the play, with East the Declarer, South opened the only suit not named by the adversaries—Diamonds; and East won the first trick. It being evident that the only tricks to be lost would be in the trump suit and that a normal division of the adverse trumps would ensure the slam contract, two rounds of trumps were taken out and they settled the question at once.

Six No Trumps could also have been made and would have produced a higher score.

A Interprets the MODE

A fantasy wool showing blue and red threads on a beige ground makes a delightful dress edged in dark brown jersey. (Courtesy of Mary Nowitzky, Paris.)

Paris, Aug. 21.

SAYS Mlle. Heriot, who should know, being an ardent yachtsteress, or whatver she should be called: "The only principle to be followed by a yachtswoman is to be always correctly dressed for her environment. On board small boat competing in a regatta with a fresh breeze blowing and a lively sea running, skirts are impossible and ridiculous. The elements call for rubber boots and trousers, waterproof if possible, and, even a suit of oilskins if the sea runs high."

In the cabin of a yacht, however, or at functions ashore, the white or blue pleated serge skirt with navy blue reefer jacket is the generally adopted style which, in regard to cut and appearance, seems to me difficult to improve upon.

Sailors all over the world wear the same kind of dress, and women sailors should do as they do!

• • • • •

I might add, being not a sailoress at all, that yachting-inclined females should submit to custom when they are ashore, and should not be distinguished from any other women at banquets, club gatherings, &c

• • • • •

Just for that I have sketched a smart hat for you which seems to have a sports air without losing a bit of individuality, as sports hats so often do. Howzat?

• • • • •

How about some skirts for yourself, or for the kiddies? Skirts, after all, are skirts. And the new skirts are different since they are higher waisted. Thinking of Petite Adorable's school things for fall, I made a leaflet telling you how to make a variety of skirts and sweater tops.

And you can find out all about skirts and tops for only a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post in which to send you the illustrated leaflet telling you how to make them.

• • • • •

How about a necklace, belt and bracelet of braided leather for your sports things this fall? Specially if there is a tiny crystal fruit with foliage into each one of the pieces!

Oh, yes, making dollar mules (the kind you wear on your footsies) look like ten. That's the title of a new idea I have stolen, lifted, right out of the smartest Paris footwear shops! Well, with your trusty needle and thread, sew two pale pink gardenias on each mule, and there you are—nine dollars worth of chic! Nif you don't believe me, jus' price this kind.

• • • • •

Mary Nowinzky can make else than bathing suits and gorlicious pajamas and tea gowns! Yes, sir, and I thought you would like to see what else—there it is in the form of a smarter than smart sports dress of light beige wool with red threads in the cloth, and a trick border of brown jersey. What what!

Do look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post. We know you'll like it.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

PEACH BAVARIAN CREAM.
(Bureau of Home Economics.)

You've had peaches in all sorts of ways while they have been in season—peaches with cream, with ice cream, peach shortcake, peach cobbler, peach pie—even broiled peaches—so you should be glad to be reminded of one more good dessert made with this delicious fruit—peach Bavarian cream. As all the Bavarian creams contain whipped cream, this is just one more way of serving peaches and cream together. The recipe is:

2 tablespoons gelatin.
½ cup cold water.
1 quart sliced fresh peaches.
1 cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 pint cream, whipped.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Mash the peaches with the sugar, rub through a sieve, and simmer for five minutes. Remove from the fire, add the softened gelatin and salt, and stir until the gelatine is dissolved. Chill, and when the mixture begins to thicken, fold in the whipped cream. Place in a wet mold, let stand in a cold place until firm, and turn out on a serving platter.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., and 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:40 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. to 8 p. m.

This date is a blank anniversary so far as astrological influences go. There will probably be a tendency to slack, and opportunities may be missed. It is the "Every Days" that count. They must be made to tell or the years have failed. A quiet time.

The child born on this August 22 will enter this world with the gift of laughter. It will have a happy, sweet disposition, and will make friends always. It will be vivacious, fun-loving, sympathetic and romantic. It will make only a fair student, as it will be too indifferent to ever gain scholastic honors.

You are a dreamer and not a doer. You indulge in the phantasmagoria of picture thoughts, both of the past and the future—many times when you should fix your mind only on the duty and occupation actually existing. You are building castles in the air when you should be laying more material foundations. You hate to buckle into the harness and to put your energies and thoughts into the humdrum duties of every-day living. You believe yourself capable of playing an important part in life, and so you are, but you do not work hard enough for it. You are not concentrating on your talents, you are not finely focusing your mind. Your self-confidence almost swells to self-obsession. You invite every Brutus to unsheathe his knife by boasting.

You do not have a patient temperament, and you often lose out by not letting things develop in their normal way. You rush through things too fast for expediency or efficiency. You would enjoy any occupation connected with public life—social work, amusements, lecturing. You have a pleasant manner with people, when you forget self. Crowds, noise and confusion do not worry you. It would be advisable for you to mate with an Aries or Sagittarius person. Your birthstone is the sardonyx, and your flower is the poppy. Your beneficial colors are red and orange. Women are your enemies.

Successful people born August 22:

1—John B. Gough, temperance lecturer.
2—Emily C. Judson ("Fanny Forrester"), author.
3—Willard Glazier, explorer and author.
4—George W. De Long, Arctic explorer.
5—Maud Powell, violinist.

Cooper Tells Club Of Oberammergau

Kiwanis Club Members Hear Description of Passion Play at Luncheon.

Interesting sidelights on the Passion Play at Oberammergau were related to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon yesterday in the Washington Hotel by William Knowles Cooper, former general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who has just returned from a European trip.

Mr. Cooper chose as his subject "New Impressions of Europe" following his trip to Bournemouth, England, as a delegate to the international meeting of the Congregational Churches. While there he read a paper entitled "Prohibition in America."

One of the bits of history in connection with the Passion Play which interested Mr. Cooper, he said, was the story of the origin of the production. It states that in 1632 most of the town of Oberammergau was wiped out by the black plague and believing that this was the wrath of God, the religious residents of the place pledged themselves to give a religious play every ten years thereafter.

Following Mr. Cooper's address, Eugene H. Ruark, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that next week's meeting would be held at 6 o'clock in the evening at Bay Ridge, Md., where the club will be guests of Andrew D. Loffler.

Two Capital Osteopaths On Convention Program

Two Washington osteopaths will take a leading part in the annual convention of the Middle Atlantic States Osteopathic Association to be held at the Monticello Hotel Norfolk, Va., on August 28, 29 and 30.

Dr. Merton A. English, of this city, will be a principal speaker, and Dr. T. J. Howerton, also of Washington, as president of the association will preside at the several sessions. The organization is composed of osteopathic physicians, surgeons and specialists of the District, Virginia and North Carolina.

Gen. Edward Fagg Pays Visit at White House

Gen. Edward S. Fagg, prominent in Confederate organization circles, called on President Hoover yesterday for a chat. He is in Washington as representative of a Virginia Beach, Va., hotel, of which he is assistant manager.

Besides being assistant adjutant general of the United Confederate Veterans, Gen. Fagg is commodore of the Confederate Naval Veterans, assistant adjutant general of the Confederate Grand Camp of Virginia, and assistant adjutant-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

King and Queen Visit Scotland.

London, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—King George and Queen Mary will leave for Balmoral tomorrow. It will be the first visit of his majesty to his Scottish seat since his recent illness. The Duke of Gloucester and Prince George will be at Balmoral, but the Prince of Wales is not expected to go north.

Mexicans War on "Shorts."

Puebla, Mex., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The mayor today ordered the police to arrest anyone found on the streets of this city without full-size trousers. The object of his action is to end the custom of Indians going about in "shorts" which are little more than loin cloths.

GENERAL STOCK LIST FALLS 1 TO 8 POINTS

Bull Operators Forced to Dig In to Let Selling Flurry Blow Over.

CALL FUNDS PLENTIFUL

New York, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Stock market operators who have once more endeavored to start bull movements in the past week were forced to dig in today, to permit a flurry of selling to blow over.

Speculators for the advance held their ground only in a few spots, while the list generally sagged 1 to 8 points. Net losses of more than a point were not numerous, however, and the price index of 90 leading shares showed a net loss of only 1 7-10 points, about two-thirds of the gain of the past two sessions.

Trading continued of a wholly professional character, retaining its aspect of being merely a pastime for floor traders unoccupied by commission business. Total sales of only 1,712,810 shares were about 100,000 shares under yesterday's turnover.

Rumors Are Discredited.

The day's selling had the earmarks of a bear drive, and was accompanied by some unsettling and generally discredited rumors such as almost always bob up in brokerage circles when the market starts to slip. The decline reached rather sharp proportions for a time in the afternoon, several leading shares dropping 2 to 3 points, but short covering in the last 10 minutes reduced the losses substantially.

The day's actual news developments were as meager as might be expected during the vacation period of late August. Report of electrical output for the second week of the month, showing a slight decline from the previous week, was a little disappointing to observers looking for seasonal improvement.

Conspicuous among the day's earnings statements was that of Vanadium Corporation, recent bull favorite. Net of $3.30 a share was reported for the first half, but it was explained that a substantial portion was from security transactions, so that operating profit was actually well below the $3.13 reported for the like period of last year.

Steel Loses ½ Point.

U. S. Steel sold off 2 points, but closed down only ½. American Telephone lost 3 points, then regained 2. The motion picture stocks were well supported, on reports of improvement in theater attendance. Radio Keith, the day's most active feature, reflected large scale bullish activity, and closed a point higher.

Loew's gained 2 points. Radio Corporation, United Aircraft, General Motors, Case and Columbian Carbon were among other active issues to close steady to firm. Worthington Pump gained about 4, and International Harvester and Purity Bakeries were up 1 at the close.

The safety razor stocks were again weak feature, Gillette dropping 10, and closed near the bottom. Autostrop sold off 1, and rallied only moderately. In the rails, Atchison lost 6, and Southern Railway sold off about 5, touching 75 for the first time in six years.

Rails Show Declines.

Rails displayed group weakness, under selling based on yesterday's disappointing car loadings announcement for the first week of the month, and unfavorable July earnings reports. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Illinois Central lost about 2 points.

Warner Bros. sagged more than a point to the year's low, then regained its loss. Shares closing off about 2 included Air Reduction, American Power & Light, Goodyear, Pacific Lighting, Stone & Webster, Safeway Stores, Auburn and Byers. Allied Chemical lost 4 and Eastman 5.

Money was plentiful, call loans renewing at 2 per cent, and outside funds being offered at 1½. The weekly brokerage loan statement, issued after the close, showed a reduction of $27,000,000, carrying the total to another new low for the last three years.

Canadian Dollar at Premium.

Firmness of leading foreign exchanges suggested possible renewal of the outflow of gold, but easy credit appeared assured until at least the turn of the month, when only nominal firmness is expected. The Canadian dollar, which recently sagged to parity, returned to a premium of nearly one-tenth of 1 cent, and sterling cables rallied to $4.87⅛.

In the commodity markets, grains were largely firm, although wheat lost ½ to ⅞ of a cent on an increase in the world visible supply and reports of large Russian offerings.

Corn gained ⅝ to ¾ of a cent a bushel. Cotton closed off 50 to 85 cents a bale.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1930. 13

NATS PITCHED TO 5-2 VICTORY OVER BROWNS BY JONES; MITCHELL CONQUERS CONSIDINE TO REACH SEMIFINALS

Westbrook Pegler Says.

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, Forrest Hills, Long Island, N. Y., Aug. 21.—With the two California Helens absent from the tournament, the walkover competition for the national women's tennis championship of Forest Hills pursued an uneventful course today and two European girls came through to meet the Americans in the semifinal matches of Friday afternoon.

Betty Nuthall, of England, a chubby young woman with a ray of a smile constantly playing on her countenance, extinguished a small California girl of childish face and figure, Miss Dorothy Weisel, from Sacramento, in two sets, 6—1, 6—1. The Baroness Giacomo Levi, of Rome, won from Miss Penelope Anderson, from Richmond, Va., 4—6, 6—4, 7—5. Miss Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., and Mrs. Lawrence Harper, of San Francisco, also won their matches from Miss Ethel Burkhardt and Miss Mary Greef, respectively, the scores being 4—6, 6—3, 6—2 and 3—6, 6—1, 6—4. Miss Burkhardt is a California girl and Miss Greef came from Kansas City.

Foreign Element Not so Foreign.

In Friday's matches Miss Nuthall will meet Miss Morrill and the Baroness Levi is to play Mrs. Harper. However, the foreign element in the semifinal round is not as foreign as it might be, for the baroness is a Chicago girl, born Maude Rosenbaum. She is a dark complexioned young woman with shiny black hair, a contrast to the preponderance of sunbrowned blondes in the tournament. She wore black-spiked shoes, which, at a distance, looked like New England goloshes and the loose abandon of her play contributed much to the entertainment value of the program.

All the girls played bare-legged notwithstanding the historic Wimbledon edict of some seasons back in which it was intimated that her majesty Queen Mary did not care to look upon the feminine calf in the nude. I hope it is neither indelicate nor irrelevant to observe, also, that the pulchritude of the ladies' championship tournament continues to improve and that nowadays the show is well worth the modest price of admission, $1.50 per head, quite aside from the quality of the tennis discoursed upon the green plush expanse of the courts.

California Lassie Overmatched.

The main event of the afternoon was Miss Nuthall's match with the Weisel girl, but it soon developed that the young one from California was hopelessly overmatched. She won the first game on her own service, but from that point until the end of the match she spent most of the time backed off the court, waving her paddle in plaintive back-hand returns, while Miss Nuthall, with a serene and consoling smile, advanced halfway to the net and sent her on impossible errands.

At the start Miss Weisel was wearing a flame-colored sweater and one of those California duck-bill visors always associated with Helen Wills; but after the first game, she peeled the sweater and pursued her work in the regulation trained-nurse uni-

19 Hits, 5 Double Plays Help Cards Beat Phils

St. Louis, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The Cardinals pounded three Phillie pitchers for nineteen hits today and won the first game of the series, 16 to 6. Grimes allowed the visitors eleven hits, but kept them scattered except in the seventh and ninth—in each of which Philadelphia scored three runs.

LOCAL RIVAL OUSTS DISTRICT CHAMPION IN NATIONAL TENNIS

Mitchell Wins in Day of Upsets, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Mrs. Martinez Gains Women's Finals in Public Parks Play.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE whirlpool of form upsets that has grown deeper day by day in the national public parks tennis tournament closed over Bob Considine, District of Columbia champion, and seeded fourth, in the quarter final round of singles yesterday.

It was none other than his old rival, Dooly Mitchell, who sent King Robert diving into the dark, swirling waters where also fell Jack De Lara, Los Angeles, seeded second, and Alex Keiles, Baltimore champion, who previously had submerged Jack Castle, Buffalo, seeded third. The pool of beaten hopes now is thickly populated with seven of the original eight seeded stars eliminated in men's singles.

More than 1,200 persons gathered at the Rock Creek Courts to see the triumph of Mitchell by scores of 3—6, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4 and the Georgetown University junior received a warm ovation as he pounded home the final point from the net. There were some who had predicted the result, but the majority, owing to Considine's past superiority, looked upon it as a surprise.

Mrs. Martinez Gains Finals in Upset.

There was more cheering for home talent when Mrs. Ruth Martinez, local women's parks singles titlist, defeated the veteran Mrs. Ann Lindemann, St. Louis, 6—3, 6—3, to reach the women's final. Here, too, was an upset, for the St. Louis woman had been favored by the experts.

But the biggest of the upsets occurred when Thomas "Bud" Markey, former Notre Dame net captain, representing Indianapolis, defeated Jack De Lara, husky University of Southern California star, seeded second, 6—4, 6—8, 6—4, 6—1. This was a case of a comparative unknown bounding from the background to flatten a confident giant, and when the struggle ceased no doubt existed as to Markey deserving the verdict.

George Jennings, jr., defending champion from Chicago, continued his drive to the finals by disposing of an old enemy, Ted Drewes, St. Louis, 11—9, 6—2, 7—5. It was Jennings' third consecutive tournament victory in straight sets. Drewes held the title during the period 1924-1927.

Mitchell Meets Markey In Semifinals.

In the other quarter-final match, Arnold P. Simons, Louisville, who dropped Jack Castle, Buffalo, seeded third, in the first round, emerged victorious over Alex Kelles, Baltimore, 6—3, 6—3, 6—3.

In the semifinals today beginning at 1 p. m., Mitchell will meet Markey and Jennings will engage Simons. Mitchell defeated Markey in the semifinals of the local public parks tourney last month. In the women's final, Mrs. Martinez will oppose Mrs. Virginia Dueker, St. Louis, who downed Helen Germaine, New York City, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3.

For the first time in his battles with Considine, Mitchell had his famous backhand and strong forehand working to perfection. His stroking was steady and his depth

HOMER IN 9TH BY SIMMONS DECISIVE

Wallop by Slugger of A's, 2 Out, Beats Tigers, 8-7.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Al Simmons' thirtieth home run of the season, with two out and one on base, in the ninth inning, today climaxed the Athletics' rally from behind a three-run lead of the Detroit Tigers, giving the champions an uphill triumph of 8 to 7 and maintaining their 8½-game lead over Washington.

George Uhle, who allowed only one hit in the first six innings, lost his effectiveness in the closing innings. He gave up four runs in the seventh and eighth and was relieved after the Athletics filled the bases, with none out, in the ninth.

Wyatt retired two men on force plays at second and then was spanked for Simmons' winning run that scored Cochrane ahead of him.

Yankees Send Carroll To Toledo on Option

New York, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees today announced the release of Pitcher Owen Carroll on option to the Toledo Club of the American Association. Carroll came to the Yankees early in the season in a trade with the Detroit Tigers.

Sunny Lassie Loses Rider At Post

Rancocas Filly Beats Chicsu 3 Lengths in Feature.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The Rancocas Stable, which has not been in the public eye for some time, finally came into its own here today and gathered the purse in the Adirondack Handicap, Ladana winning the 6-furlong sprint feature of the day's program. Chicsu was second and Sovietta third. Panasetee was fourth.

Sunny Lassie, one of the well-played fillies, was caught in a jam just after the start and lost her rider, E. Watters.

The start was delayed eleven and a half minutes by the bad post actions of Firetop, who refused to line up with the rest of the horses. She lunged and bucked and once unseated Walls. However, the field was sent away to a fairly good start.

Ladana got away flying and Fator hustled her along. He rode one of his good races by keeping the filly in front.

The field challenged in the stretch, but Ladana easily drew away to win by three lengths.

Chicsu beat Sovietta a nose for the place.

The race was worth $4,400.

Chicago, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—W. J. Salmon's 4-year-old Annapolis registered his third straight victory in as many starts when he won the Glencoe Purse, the best number on today's card at Hawthorne Track. F. Brant's 4-year-old Equation was next to pass under the wire, with Clayton Morris' Uncommon Gold third. The race was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward over the mile and a sixteenth distance and was worth $1,200 to the winner. The Man o' War colt negotiated the journey in 1:44 3-5 and paid off at $4.58 for $2 in the mutuel machines.

Annapolis was rated along in last position through the back stretch, where Jockey Schaefer gave the Man o' War colt his head and taken to the rail responded gamely, passing one horse after another until the stretch was reached, where he engaged in a terrific head-and-head struggle with Uncommon Gold and Equation, outgaming Equation in the final strides to win by a head. Equation held on

GIANTS ROUT CHICAGO IN OPENER

Hammer Blake for 6 Runs in 1st Inning to Win, 13-6.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—John McGraw's Giants from New York presented a bear-training act in Wrigley Field this afternoon, and when it was over had a 13-to-6 victory over the Cubs in the first game of their vital series and were only two games behind Chicago in the National League pennant battle.

The Giants gave an able demonstration of why they have won 22 out of their last 26 games in humbling the 1929 champions of the senior league. They belted Sheriff Fred Blake and Bud Teachout for fifteen hits, took advantage of every Cub shortcoming and presented a defense that left no opportunities for easy scoring.

The Cubs dug the pit from which they were unable to hoist themselves before a man was out in the first inning. Clarence Blair muffed Hughie Critz's grounder and Eddie Farrell followed up by booting Leach's roller. Blake walked Lindstrom, and Critz scored and Terry was safe at first as Farrell threw out Leach at second. Ott walked and after O'Farrell had filed out Jackson singled scoring Lindstrom. Wallie Roettger then produced the blow that wrecked the Cubs—a homer into the right-field bleachers, which gave the Giants a six-run working margin.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

LU BLUE made two hits opening the game. He singled over McLeod's head on Jones' first pitch, but it did not count because the game was being delayed starting while Shortstop Joe Cronin was off the field, getting a drink of water. Then Blue singled over second.

Hayes went to short center to make a nice catch of O'Rourke's looper ending the alien second.

Cronin started the second round and West ended it, each watching a third strike pass them.

Melillo had to do some great hurrying of his throw to nip McLeod at the doorway starting the home third.

Spencer, back in the game after a short layoff due to a sore arm, was the first Nat to reach first. He coaxed a walk on four successive balls with one gone in the third. Collins followed by also passing Jones.

Manush's liner ending the Nats' third-inning rally had hit written all over it when the ball left the bat. It was headed straight at Blue, however, who grabbed the ball just above his head and stepped on first to make an unassisted double play.

Judge made a nice play at first in the alien fourth when he took Cronin's low peg on the half-bounce and tagged Kress just as he was about to touch the sack.

Metzler raced over toward center to make a brilliant back-handed catch of Cronin's well-hit looper opening Washington's fourth.

Melillo almost "low-bridged" Jones leading off Round 5. The pitcher managed to get his glove to the ball but did not slow it up much, as it rolled all the way to center field.

Jones pulled out of a tight hole in the fifth. With men on third and second and none out, he forced O'Rourke to pop-foul to McLeod and then fanned both Collins and Blue.

McLeod contributed a great stop to rob Kress of a hit and end the St. Louis sixth when he gobbled up a liner on the half-bounce.

A foul from Joe Judge's bat almost tore off Umpire Hildebrand

34 HEAD AT FINAL YEARLING SALE GO FOR $64,000

$9,500 Paid For Son of Noah

John Hastings Buys Top Price Colt of C. W. Hay Stud.

Sunbriar Yearling of Kilmer Farm Fetches Only $4,100.

Special to The Washington Post.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The last of the yearlings sales were held here tonight when 34 head passed under the hammer, bringing a total of $64,000. The principal consignments were from the Court Manor Stud of Willis Sharpe Kilmer, and the Scotland Farm of C. W. Hay. It was several of Mr. Hay's yearlings which brought the top prices. One, a chestnut son of Noah and Dick's Daughter, brought $9,500. John Hastings, well known as a trainer, was the purchaser. The colt is a half brother of Catlettsburg and Bell-Rive and is engaged to run in the 1931 Futurity.

Griffin Watkins again was a big buyer, acquiring four of the highest-priced youngsters. The second and third highest-priced yearlings went to him, the former changing hands for $7,500 and the latter for $2,000 less. The $7,500 yearling was a son of Paicines out of Mervinia. Paicines is the sire of Ervast the flashy horse which developed on the Pacific Coast in 1928 and 1929. His son sold tonight looks like a speedy fellow and his dam is a great mare, as she is a half sister to Jack High, one of George D. Widener's best horses.

Hourless Filly Goes For $5,100.

Another Scotland Farm horse sold to Robert Robertson for $5,100. This was an Hourless filly out of Koster Girl. She was the highest priced yearling of her sex sold during the evening. The filly is so brown as to be almost black and is a half sister to Pinnster, Gipsy Girl and Croatan.

The highest priced Kilmer yearling sold for $4,100, and this yearling was the only other one to bring more than $4,000. Sun Briar is Mr. Kilmer's greatest sire and the youngster, which brought top price in Mr. Kilmer's lot, was by him. The mare was Hathor and W. T. Allen was the buyer. There was some expectation that the Sun Briar colt would bring a higher price, as he is a brother to the stake winners Sun Meddler and Sun Worship. But the youngster was not as fully grown as some buyers like to see. This being due to the fact that he was a late foal and not nearly as old nor as big as some which have been brought into the ring on other nights. The foaling date was April 27.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 21.—One of the best balanced programs of the present session will be run off at this beautiful course tomorrow in the Ballston Handicap, the main attraction. Eight well regarded handicap performers will battle it out.

William Ziegler may have the satisfaction of witnessing his crack colt, GONEAWAY, taking down the important money in the Ballston, which will be run over the Wilson mile. This colt is at the peak of his form at present. He has trained famously for his coming engagement in the Saratoga Cup one week from Saturday, where he will be asked to run against Gallant Fox. If the son of Runantelli triumphs today he will have many followers who believe he will prove a worthy rival of the Fox. FAIRBALL holds the foot of this field but is heavily weighted with 119 pounds. All of the horses in Mrs. Hertz's Stable are in perfect condition and the Fair Play horse is no exception as his races at Chicago attest. GONEAWAY can not make any mistake and whip him. KILDARE and PANUCO seem next best.

FIRST RACE—BUSBY C figures a shade the best of the large field in the opening attraction, at six furlongs. This is a good, steady youngster which has been close up against better company and also has a winning race to run back to. With an alert beginning he should take the money. BURGOO would have won the Consolation Stakes last Monday with better racing luck. He should be mighty hard to beat today. PANETIAN and GREATOREX are strong contenders and by no means out of it.

SECOND RACE—CAID, a foreign bred jumper, is given the preference in the Hercloid Steeplechase Handicap, at about two miles. In his only start on this side of the Atlantic last week, the Son of Teddy ran well enough to warrant the belief that he will improve with racing. The field he is meeting here is one of little merit. With a capable rider up he may graduate. RULER has INDIGO to whip for the second prize.

THIRD RACE—Gentleman riders will be aboard the selling platers in the third race, the Genesee Purse, over the distance of 7 furlongs. JOE MARRONE III has the class and speed of this field. With a competent rider in the saddle he should hardly lose. BO BALLOT'S recent trials have been good. He may defeat THE TATTLER for the place.

FIFTH RACE—The fifth, the Onondaga Purse, also brings out a smart field. They are asked to go over the route of a mile and a furlong. E. R. Bradley's clever home-bred colt BUCKEYE POET, has little to do when in the Onondaga. He has done all that has been asked of him and never appeared in better trim. He needs only to run his race to keep up his winning stride. The Man o' War colt, FULL DRESS, will favor this route and off his winning race at the meeting comes in for the place award. GOLD BROOK holds the speed, but is not partial to this distance, but should have no trouble taking the show money from MOINE and YARN, the other two starters.

SIXTH RACE—RED FLARE is rated one of the top 2-year-olds at the Spa. Seasoned by one race the Big Blaze colt, is now ready to crack down and display his true worth. He is meeting a high-class field of juveniles in the closing number, but if he is the colt that he is reported to be, should win. SUN'S WAY was heavily backed in his maiden start, but had no chance to run, being forced back at the break. With a rapid beginning he appears RED FLARE'S chief opponent. PENNATE is Whitney's youngster, which has trained well. He may go better than rated here.

ATHEL, running in much improved form, was sent up on inside and lucky to get through, came around GUILDER in stretch, but was driven out to win. SUNNY MORN was miserable ridden. He broke fast, but was allowed to drop far back. He was sent up on the outside again, dropped back on turn, but in the final furlong, came very fast and, under better handling, would have won. GUILDER ran into lead early, saved ground and held on gamely. CHIEF'S WARRIOR was kept well up all the way. WRESTLER suffered interference. PATIGON ran an improved race.

SECOND RACE—About two and one-half miles. Purse, $1,500 added; conditions. The Eastern Horse Club Steeplechase for Hunters. For 5-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. HORICON, well ridden, was under restraint for a turn and a half of the field, made up ground gradually on leader and easily went to the front a half mile from home to win very easily. MAID OF MARS held wide lead for more than a mile, going easily, but tired the last time around. She had no contention for the place. HIGH FIELD finished third in the stretch run. CHIEF was outclassed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $5,000. The Adirondack Handicap. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:07. Off at 4:18½. † Rancocas Stable entry.

LADANA, going in best form, got away flying, opened long lead, saved ground and drew away easily at end. CHICSU was kept close to the early pace, saved ground and held on gamely. SOVIETTA handled well, displayed good speed and ran a good race. PANASETTE broke very slow, worked her way up, but was tiring fast at finish. BUCKUP broke fast, but was crowded back. She closed with a good burst of speed. DOUBLE TIME had no mishaps. ALLEZ VITE had speed for half a mile. ZAIDEE tired in last quarter mile. SUNNY LASSIE lost rider at start.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500 added. The Senator Kavanaugh Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:40½. Off at 4:44½. SPINACH was much the best. He was rated off the early pace for three furlongs, moved up very fast on the outside in the run down the back stretch, took a long lead and won galloping. COMSTOCKERY, after a slow start, displayed good speed and held FOLKING safe. FOLKING had more early speed than usual and ran a good race.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000. The Artful. For 3-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:07. Off at 5:07½. Winner, Montpelier Farm's b. f. LOST AGNES, on the outside in early part, came around field in stretch, swerved over, interfering with field and drew away to win under a drive. CURTSEY was kept well up and made a game effort, but was in close quarters in stretch. BIDE A WEE was poorly ridden. She was taken to outside in run down back stretch, steered over to the rail on turn and, caught in a jam just after turning into stretch, was knocked off her stride and never recovered. SPELLBOUND had plenty of speed for six furlongs, then stopped to a walk.

SIXTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; conditions. The Warrensburg. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:34. Off at 5:38. Winner, E. R. BLACK TYRONE, under good handling, displayed keen speed, raced SOUPCON into submission, drew away and held on gamely. ROCKY NEWS closed with a rush in the final furlong. SOUPCON, away fast, showed good speed and held on well. ROLLIN' IN ran a good race. SIR ASHLEY was miserably ridden, was away slow and then taking the overland route all the way, he finished fast on his own courage. COMMUTER could not get to the front.

TILE SETTERS WIN OPENER IN WEEK-DAY SERIES

Carmen Lose Wild Game, 12 to 8

Freschi's Four Singles Prominent; Errors Mar Contest.

Pullman and Calvary to Clash Today on Station Field.

THE Tile Setters, Industrial League champions, drew first blood in the week-day leagues' title series yesterday by defeating the Capital Traction Co. Nine, winner of the Terminal Morning League pennant, by a 12-to-8 score before more than 1,000 fans gathered around the Terminal diamond. J. O. Totten, chief clerk to the manager of the Terminal, tossed out the first ball.

The game was a free-hitting affair which saw the Tile Setters break a 2-to-2 tie score in the third inning with six runs, only to have to fight back in the late innings to maintain their lead.

Frank Di Nenna and "Lefty" White, the opposing pitchers, both went the route. Neither was overburdened with support.

The Carmen scored in the first on a hit batsman and Mehalic's double, but the Tilemen came back in their half to count twice without a hit. Two errors, a walk and a wild pitch turned the trick. In the second Capital Traction tied the score, making a run with singles by Brimsfield, H. White and L. White, and an error figuring.

Six Tile Setters Cross Plate.

Six Tile Setters crossed the plate in the third. Harrison walked and Cinotti tripled him home. Freschi scored him with a single and Barry doubled, scoring Freschi. Licarione singled and Parrella walked to fill the bases. Garilli singled and Barry and Licarione counted. Parrella scored on an infield out.

A single by L. White was the only hit that figured in the three runs the Carmen made in the fourth.

Freschi's single and two errors gave the Tile Setters two runs and a 10-to-5 lead in the sixth. The Carmen got a run back in the seventh with Everheart's single the only hit figuring.

The Tilemen came back with two tallies in their half. Two errors and singles by DiNenna and Freschi was the medium. Capital Traction made a bid for the game in the ninth, shoving over two runs. Van Doran and H. White contributed the hits.

Joe Freschi was the day's batting hero with four hits in as many tries.

Today, the Pullman Co. Nine, winner of the Evening Terminal title, will meet the Calvary Team, champion of the Georgetown Church League.

Four Capital City League Races May End on Sunday

Mt. Rainier Needs Victory Over Dixie Pigs; Seniors, Juniors and Insects in Crucial Games.

OF the nine games on the Capital City League scheduled for Sunday, eight have a direct bearing on various championships, and three title races may be decided.

The most interest is centered in the battle of the two leading teams in the Prince Georges County section—the Mount Rainier and Dixie Pig Nines—which has been shifted to the Byrd Stadium, at Maryland University. Mount Rainier can clinch the title by a victory, while the Dixies by winning can stay in the race, depending on Hyattsville upsetting the leaders and creating a tie in their next game.

Boy Lyon will do the pitching for Mount Rainier, with Clapper the probable choice for the Dixie Pigs.

In the District unlimited class the leading Columbia Heights Team plays the Army Medicos on diamond No. 4 of the Monument Grounds. The Medicos won the last clash.

The Anacostia Eagles, leading contenders now, will face the Foxall Club, which upset St. Joseph last week, on the Foxall Field, while St. Joe and the Woodmen will resume their fued on the Plaza.

A renewal of the "do or die" 12-inning battle which the Olmsted Grill took from the O'Briens will feature the senior class. The game is booked for the North Ellipse at 3 o'clock. The Grillmen can take the title with a victory. Russell and Wiles are the likely pitchers.

The deciding game of the insect championship play-off will bring the Wonder Boys and Georgetown together on the South Ellipse at 11 o'clock. Each team has won victory. In the Montgomery County League the schedule will end with the Bethesda Nine entertaining Kensington at 3 o'clock. The Takoma Tigers clinched the title last Sunday.

The second series in the junior class may end today. The Lionels can take the honors by defeating Bethesda in their game on the West Ellipse, starting at 12:45 o'clock. Bethesda plays Acme in a second clash on the same field at 3 o'clock.

Police Nine Gains Revenge On Old Lorton University

IT is one thing for a bootlegger to pitch the Police Department Baseball Team into defeat and it is another thing for that fact to have reached the newspapers, which it did last week. Since the Cops did a lot of deep thinking, unassisted, and decided to give the Lorton (District Prison Farm) Team another game.

The game was played yesterday. The prisoners trotted their hero, the bootlegegr, to the hill. His stuff was no good. The Cops got a taste in the first inning and three crossed the bar (or is it plate?). The bootlegger tried to mix them in the second inning and the Cops' eyes grew brighter. Before three were out (not on the floor) the bootlegger had failed to deliver the goods and a dusky giant from Southwest, who is something of a blue blood at the farm having won his spurs on a bribery charge, climbed the mound.

He couldn't get the Cops to listen to reason, however, although he lasted out the game, which the Police won, 8-2.

Pinney Kelly, pitching for the Police, of course, did a comeback against the prisoners, who handled him roughly in the first clash. He went the route, fanning eight and granting six hits. Officer Campbell led the Police attack with four hits. "Snaggs," who once thought an auto was his for the taking, got three of the prisoners' safeties.

Today the Police Nine travels to St. Elizabeths Hospital for a game at 4 o'clock.

DEL RAY WANTS GAME.

A game for Sunday with a strong unlimited club is wanted by the Del Ray Team. Call R. L. Martin at Alexandria 267-W after 5 o'clock.

MOUNT RAINIER WOULD PLAY

The Mount Rainier Nine, leading the Prince Georges County race, wants a game for tomorrow. Call Manager Mosedale at Hyattsville 1572-J. Mount Rainier players will report at the field tomorrow at 3 o'clock.

GIANTS BUY OUTFIELDER.

Henderson, N. C., Aug. 21 (A. P.).—Johnny Jones, hard hitting Henderson outfielder, has been sold to the New York Giants, it was announced here today. The sale price was not disclosed.

Bridgeport and Baltimore Nines Survive Legion Games

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 21—Winners in the semifinals of the American Legion junior baseball tournament, Eastern division, were Bridgeport, Conn., representing Region 11, and Baltimore, representing Region 10. The former trounced the Gastonia, N. C., Team, 14 to 3, while the latter won from Cincinnati, 5 to 1.

Two games will be played tomorrow. The first will be between Manchester, N. H., and Tampa, Fla., while in the nightcap Baltimore will face Bridgeport.

Opportune hitting enabled the Maryland Team to win from the Ohioans. Cincinnati's lone run came in the second inning on successive doubles by Bruner and Finn.

Baltimore knotted the count in her half of the second frame when Bolognese drew a pass, pilfered second, went to third on a fielder's choice and counted on a balk.

Reichard contributed a circuit smash in the third inning and Newberry crossed the plate in the fourth for Baltimore's third run.

The Maryland Nine cinched the game by sending two runs across in the eighth. Newberry opened with a scratch hit and registered on Bolognese's triple. Steiner then laid down a neat bunt on which Bolognese scored.

Burrows twirled steady ball for the victors, issuing only one pass. At times his support was rather ragged.

Jacobs, Baltimore second baseman, aged 18, youngest player in the tournament, fielded sharply and was a favorite with the crowd. Reichard and Kaun led with the stick for the victors. The former's catch of Griffith's drive to deep left field in the eighth proved the fielding feature.

MITCHELL DEFEATS CONSIDINE IN 4 SETS

all too fine for Considine's enjoyment. But it was his smart mixture of shots that factored most importantly.

Employs Considine's Drop Shot.

Dooly evidently was mindful of the tactics used against him by Considine in previous clashes, for he executed the Considine drop shot and crackling volley as well as Bob ever did. Often after driving rallies the Hilltop player caught the District champion flatfooted in back court and literally dumped the ball in the forecourt just over the netting.

Considine by no means performed poorly. He made a fight of it to the finish. But he was never able to do his best after the first set. Bob showed his courage in the fourth and final set by pulling up from 2—5 to 4—5, twice passing the eager Mitchell at the net in the ninth game. This sudden rally appeared to have upset Mitchell at the start of the tenth game, for he double-faulted on the first point. But he quickly recovered to put over an ace on the next point.

Mrs. Martinez Plays Driving Game.

Steady forehand driving gained Mrs. Martinez the decision over Mrs. Lindemann, 34-year-old St. Louis housewife. The Capital woman broke through service in the fourth game to lead 3—1 in the first set and in the second chapter broke her foe's delivery three times, twice during a 3-game streak.

Today Mitchell and Considine will resume partnership in the doubles, being slated to play Tiller and Hall, of Louisville, in the quarter-finals. They drew a bye in the first round and swamped Keenan and McConnell, of Niagara Falls, in the second.

Markey and Eddie Yeomans, winners of the local parks doubles championship, were well on the way to an upset victory over the Lejeck brothers, Leo and Charles, of Chicago, when the match was halted. The score was 6—3, 5—7, 6—3 against the favored Windy City pair at the time. The fourth set and fifth, if necessary, will be held this afternoon.

The women's doubles final also is carded this afternoon with Mrs. Lindemann and Mrs. Dueker opposing Ethel Haas and Lydia Kayser, of Buffalo, at 3 p. m. The first-named pair defeated Mrs. Martinez and Jean Artzberger, of Pittsburgh, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2, while the other finalists overwhelmed Lucille Hartz and Helen Rupp, of Baltimore, 6—4, 6—1.

CHICAGO PRO LEADING IN WESTERN

Harry Hampton's 69 One Stroke Ahead; Others Bunched.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

INDIANWOOD GOLF CLUB, Orion, Mich., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Harry Hampton, the rotund Scot from Chicago, adopted the role of the inevitable dark horse today to trot away with first honors in the opening eighteen-hole skirmish for the Western open golf championship.

The bespectacled professional, seldom a winner in any championship struggle, but always almost certain of posting one hot round of golf, gained his lead today by galloping around the Indianwood Club course with a dazzling 69, three strokes under par and one shot ahead of Clarence Gamber, Detroit professional, who shattered perfect figures with a 70 and finished second.

A spectacular, record equaling 31, four strokes under perfect figures, on the first nine holes was the powder that blew Hampton into the lead and held him there today.

Armour and Hagen Slump.

Although a heavy cross wind and a brief downpour of rain stopped the heavy assault started against par in yesterday's qualifying round, most of the favorites, with two notable exceptions, came in with low enough totals to stick in the running. The exceptions were Tommy Armour, the defending champion from Detroit, and Walter Hagen, who topped the qualifying round with a record-breaking 67 yesterday. A bad 40 on the first nine stopped Armour and he finally came in with a 78, nine strokes behind Hampton's score, while Hagen took a par 35 out and then slumped to take a 42 on his backward nine for a 77.

Only two others shattered par today—Bob Shave, Marion, Ohio, professional, and the veteran Al Watrous, of Detroit, who shot 71s.

Mehlhorn Shoots Perfect 72.

One stroke behind them with perfect 72s were "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, of New York; Densmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio, and Emerick Kocsis, Detroit professional. Seven shot 73s, and among them were such favorites as Gene Sarazen, of New York, and Emmett French, of Southern Pines, H. C. Horton Smith and Johnny Farrell, of New York, two more favorites, staggered in with a pair of 74s to cling to the ranks of the leaders. They played most of their rounds during the rain.

Other low scores for the initial round were John Revolta, Portage, Wis., 73; Oscar Williuweit, Aurora, Ind., 73; Dave Ogilvie, Cleveland, 73; Johnny Watson, South Bend, Ind., 73; Dave Robertson, Detroit, 73, and Henry Ciuci, Stratford, Conn., 73. Charles "Chick" Evans, jr., of Chicago, former champion, duplicated Hagen's 77.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 21.—A committee composed of City Manager Wallace Lawrence, Coach Prex Wilson, C. T. Nickelson and Charles Stump, of this city, left today for Charlottesville, Va., to attend the game between the Legion teams, of Bridgeport, Conn, and Gastonia, N. C. The purpose of this visit was to arrange a game with the Gastonia team. The committee will attempt to bring them to Alexandria to play the local Legion boys in Baggett's Stadium, Saturday evening at 3 o'clock.

Should this arrangement fail, the locals will play the Legion Spengler Post Team, of Washington, D. C., on the same date and time.

The swimming meet scheduled for last night at the Municipal Pool was postponed, due to the exceedingly low temperature of the water. A large gallery was on hand and in order not to disappoint them entirely, a diving exhibition was staged by the Gator Club and the coming young star, Archie Norfolk. The divers received a large hand from the gallery with their intricate assortment of dives.

The Baracas upset the Old Dominion Boat Club Baseball Team for their second defeat of the season by the score of 10 to 3. The high lights of the game were the spectacular fielding of Hudson, in center field, and the terrific hitting of E. West, of the winners. Kegan, of the Boat Club, was the only man able to solve the offerings of Evans.

V. P. I. Appoints Three Alumni to Grid Staff

Blacksburg, Va., Aug. 21.—Appointment of Macauley McEver, Bristol; John Looney, Roanoke, and Philip H. Hotchkiss, Warrenton, former V. P. I. athletes, as assistant football coaches at Virginia Polytechnic Institute was announced today by C. P. Miles, director of athletics. All three will assist Henry Redd, head coach of freshman football and director of freshman athletics, in training 200 candidates for the first-year gridiron squad this fall. The new mentors were in class of 1928 and made outstanding records on V. P. I. teams.

Playground Youths Vie Today for Post's Medals

The Municipal Playground Department's annual field and track meet for colored athletes will be held today in the Howard University Stadium, starting at 10 o'clock. Individuals who are first, second and third will be awarded gold, silver and bronze medals, respectively, by The Washington Post and the winning team will have custody of The Post Cup for a one-year period.

Briggs Playground won the meet last year but playground officials expect the champions to have a difficult time in defending their laurels today, as many capable squads will compete. It is expected that 1,000 boys will vie for honors. Contestants are requested to enter the stadium at the Sixth and Fairmont street entrance.

sets, but the tiny Miss Burkardt proved today that the New Englander is not invulnerable, and as a result Miss Nuthall will be favored.

Mrs. Harper, a spry little left-handed player, who now is the sole remaining California representative, needed all of her courage and coolness under fire to pull out her match with Miss Greef after trailing in the final set. The result vindicated the present national ranking which places Mrs. Harper at No. 5 and Miss Greef at No. 6 and gave additional ammunition to the tennis fans who maintain the San Franciscoan should have been sent to England with the Wightman Cup Team this summer instead of the Kansas City girl.

Triumph of Baroness Most Exciting.

The most exciting match of the day was that in which the former Maude Rosenbaum, of Chicago, now the Baroness Levi, of Rome, volleyed and smashed her way to victory over Miss Anderson.

The Richmond player was the picture of form, but her opponent, a chop-stroke artist of rare ability and acrobatic skill, continually attacked until at last she carried the day through sheer aggressiveness and courage. Miss Anderson also put up a great fight and warded off four match points in the tenth game of the final set only to lose in the twelfth.

DOUBLES, QUARTER-FINAL ROUND—Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., and Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Mrs. C. E. Muhl and Grace Burber, New York, 6—3, 6—1.

Miss Anderson and Miss Morrill defeated Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, and Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor, New York, 6—2, 6—3.

Mrs. Harper and Edith Cross, San Francisco, defeated Baroness Levi and Minnie Palfrey, Brookline, Mass., 6—3, 13—11.

Miss Nuthall and Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, defeated Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., and Virginia Hillearn, Philadelphia, 4—6, 6—2, 6—4.

N. Y.-Miami Record For Outboards Claimed

Miami Beach, Fla., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Frank Morley, of Mount Dora, Fla., laid claim today to the outboard motorboat record for a trip from New York to this point.

Morley left New York in a boat with a 35-horsepower engine at 4:20 a. m. E. S. T., August 6 on the 1,600-mile voyage. He arrived here at 10:05 p. m. E. S. T. last night, 14 days 17 hours and 45 minutes later.

C. W. Chase, jr., of Miami Beach, who was official timer for the trip as a representative of the American Powerboat Association, said Morley's time was approximately twelve days faster than the existing record for such a trip.

Piedmont League Seeks To Increase Rating

Durham, N. C., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—Judge W. G. Bramham, president of the Piedmont League, today said a fall meeting of club owners and directors would take up the question of increasing the league's rating from Class C to Class B.

The 1930 census gave the Piedmont League cities the necessary population for a class "D" circuit and the question has been discussed informally by the directors for some time.

The presidents of the Winston Salem, Durham and Raleigh clubs have announced they favor seeking a higher rating. No stand has been taken by Greensboro, High Point and Henderson, other members of the league.

Egan Retains His Title In Cleland Cup Tourney

"Chuck" Egan, United Press entry, retained the Cleland Cup tournament championship yesterday in competition over the Army War College course. Egan is the only champion who has repeated in the tournament for Washington sports writers sponsored by officers and the faculty of the War College.

Egan went out in 36 and came in with a 44 for an 80 which, with his 11 handicap, gave him a net count of 69. Walter McCallum, Star; Henry Tait Rodier, Bulletin, and A. W. S. Pailey, Herald, tied for second low net with 72.

McCallum turned in the best low gross score with 68. Pailey, a newcomer to the competition, was second with 69.

form which has become standard on the courts now.

Miss Nuthall was not exerted to any extent, and the precise manner in which she rebuked Miss Weisel's ambitions indicated that they were very premature. Miss Weisel happened into the quarter-finals when she won from Sarah Palfrey unexpectedly in Wednesday's matches; but she happened right out again in brief time, and the two girls walked off the court together on the most amiable terms.

Male Patrons Seedy and Inconspicuous.

There were a lot of automobiles parked along the leafy side streets of the red brick and stucco suburb of Forest Hills, but within the stadium the trade was meager, the patrons being arrayed in the bouquets of color, one at each end of the main court, about 1,500 all told. There were several hundred males but they were a seedy and inconspicuous lot in their business attire, by contrast with the plumage of the girls.

It was a polite, attentive crowd, well informed in the etiquette of the game and William T. Tilden, himself, would have had no occasion to beef if he had been unfolding one of his dramas before them, unless it could be that Mr. Tilden's bearing instinctively arouses the worst there is in the customers, which may be a thought for today. Once, during the Nuthall-Weisel match, the people applauded as the English girl dropped a point into the net but the shot that brought on the outbreak was a difficult get by Miss Weisel and Miss Nuthall seemed to understand, so international relations remained cordial.

Considering that Mrs. Helen Wills Moody has temporarily retired to domesticity in California and her rival, Helen Jacobs, has left off playing for a time owing to ill health, the tournament is surprisingly spirited and less grim than usual.

Not often do the girls betray any such pleasure at being beaten as some of the losers did this afternoon.

CORRECT DATE.

The Saks Team's next game is scheduled September 7 with the Alexandria Cards. It has not scheduled the Dixie Pigs, as was reported.

Ruddy, of New York, to Defend Title Won Here Last Year.

RAYMOND RUDDY, of the New York A. C. Swimming Team and holder of several swimming records, will defend his President Cup race title here tomorrow when the Washington Canoe Club will hold its annual 3-mile swim. Ruddy has won the race for two consecutive years.

The only certain entries from the Washington Canoe Club are two of the youngest swimmers in major competition. They are Robert Wrenn, 16 years old, and Everett Buscher, 17. Buscher swam last year and was the first local man to finish.

Entries received by Commodore Elmer McGuigan, of the canoe club, up to last night include: New York A. C., Ray Ruddy, Don Ruddy, Edward Lee, Leo Glebel and either George Fissler or Leonard Spence; Bay Shore Swimming Club, of Baltimore, Paul Cleresium, John Gill, Edward Sullivan, Joseph Metz; unattached, French P. Grimes, Washington; Ben Goldberg, Washington, and Franklin D. Jackson, of Quantico. The Palooka Club, of Annapolis, composed of Naval Academy swimmers, will be represented also.

Don Ruddy, named as a member of the New York A. C. Squad, is a brother of Raymond and was captain of the Naval Academy Team last year.

WOOD LOSES TO LOTT AT NEWPORT

Youth Stricken With Cramp in Leg After Winning 2 Sets.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—A painful leg cramp today ended the impressive winning streak of Sydney Wood, 18-year-old New Yorker, who has been burning up Eastern tennis courts this season. Sydney had George Lott, Davis Cup singles player, at two sets all in their Newport Casino quarter-finals match and was stroking accurately and expertly when the cramp forced him to slow down.

Lott also slowed down to match the New Yorker's pace. He managed to enter the semifinals by clinching the deciding set for a 6—4, 7—5, 4—6, 4—6, 6—4 victory.

Lott, seeded second in the historic Casino play, led three other highly ranked stars into the second-last round, where he will clash with his international teammate, Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex. Allison advanced through an extra-set victory over Frank Shields, New York youngster, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4.

Shields started impressively, but his service faltered badly in the second set and he was unable to regain control of it.

Tilden Beats Mangin in Straight Sets.

"Big Bill" Tilden, top-seeded national and defending champion, was called upon to face Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., in today's quarter-finals. The old master's injured hip was greatly improved and he scored a straight-set victory, 6—2, 6—3, 7—5.

"Big Bill" will have another interesting match tomorrow for his close friend and doubles partner, Frank Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., managed to gain the other semifinals position in the lower half of the draw by outsteadying Van Ryn to the tune of 8—6, 4—6, 6—3, 1—6, 6—4.

Play in the doubles, also reduced to the semifinals stage, was featured by the elimination of ott Land and Johnny Doeg, the national champions, by Jack Tidball and Gerald Bartosh.

FOURTH ROUND DOUBLES.

Jack Tidball and Gerald Bartosh, Los Angeles, defeated George M. Lott, jr., Chicago, and Johnny Does, Santa Monica, Calif., 6—2, 6—2, 3—6, 6—2.

George Lott, Chicago, and Johnny Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated J. Gilbert Hall, New York, and Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., 12—10, 7—5, 4—6, 6—4, 6—4.

QUARTER-FINALS, DOUBLES.

Wilbur Coen, jr., Kansas City, and Harrison Cossehall, Des Moines, defeated Phil Neer, San Francisco, and Ely W. Feibleman, New York, 6—3, 7—5, 6—3, 6—3.

Berkley Bell, Austin, Tex., and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., defeated G. Appleton Rogers, Ireland, and J. W. McPherson, New York, 6—3, 4, 6—4.

Lott, W. T. Tilden, Philadelphia, and Frank Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., defeated Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Calif., 6—1, 6—4, 12—14, 8—6.

BONDS HOLD STEADY IN BRISKER MARKET

Good Demand Develops for Seasoned Utilities, and Carriers Improve.

FOREIGN LIST IS ACTIVE

New York, Aug. 21 (A. P.).—In slightly increased activity, the listed bond market was firm today, and a brisk demand developed for seasoned utility issues, as carrier obligations continued to improve.

The foreign list was more active with prices somewhat irregular, but the easier tone of the money market, with call money renewing at 2 per cent for the first time since August 11, did not influence any buying of United States Governments, which were extremely dull. Liberty first 4s dropped 28-32ds of a point on one sale.

Such seasoned issues as American Telephone 5s of 1965, Consolidated Gas 5½s, Kansas City Gas and Electric 4½s, North American Edison 5s, and Postal Telegraph 5s were firm to strong. American and foreign power 5s reached a new peak, along with Bell Telephone 5s, and Detroit Edison 5s.

Other Issues Advance.

Added to the list of railroad obligations which have worked into new high ground on the current advance were Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis 4½s, Chicago & Alton 3s, Union Pacific 4s of 1968, Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas 5s A, Oregon Railroad & Navigation 4s, and Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s.

Most of the gains were on small turnovers. Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh 4½s, Northern Pacific general 3s, St. Paul general 4½s, were other strong spots. Cuba Railway first 5s soared 8 points. Pennsylvania 4¾s were reactionary.

Industrials were mixed, with the activity in oil obligations a feature. Sinclair Pipe Line 5s reached a new peak. Richfield Oil 6s, and Shell Union 5s lost ¾ of a point each. Lorillard 5s were strong.

National Dairy 5¼s Strong.

National Dairy 5¼s, one of the most prominently traded industrials, held firm. Chulco 6½s lost 9 points, sinking to a new low, and Childs Co. 5s, Container Corporation 5s, and Gould Coupler 6s were reactionary.

Royal Dutch 4s held within a small fraction of the year's high price, and were the most active foreign bonds.

European Governments were virtually unchanged. Denmark 4½s were weak. In the South American group Brazil 6½s gained nearly a point, and Buenos Aires 6s ½.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

CREDIT AID SESSION IN FAIRFAX TONIGHT

All Interested Are to Meet to See if Outside Help Must Be Sought.

12 TREATED AT CLINIC

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

There will be a special meeting at 7:45 tonight in the offices of County Agricultural Agent H. B. Darr in Fairfax of the county bankers and all other persons interested in devising ways and means by which the farmers and dairymen of the county, who have been hard hit by the continued drought, can secure relief to carry them through the winter and until their crops mature next year.

Agent Darr declared "the question confronting every one is whether Fairfax County agencies can finance these needs and whether outside assistance will have to be sought. The aid that is given the farmer and dairyman will have to be for a longer time than usual because of the fact that considerable time must elapse before the farmers will be receiving any income from their farms or the dairymen from their herds, as they have not been able to raise the customary hay and grain; also their families must live and their herds must be fed.

The board of directors of the National Bank of Fairfax will hold a meeting this afternoon to take what they hope to be final action on the plans for the new bank building that is to be erected on the corner of Main and Payne streets in Fairfax, the site of the old Fairfax Tavern. The original estimates received were discarded by them as being too high.

The Kemper Masonic Lodge at Falls Church will hold its meeting this evening in the Odd Fellows Hall on Broad street.

The Herndon School and Community League will hold its meeting this evening in the auditorium of the Herndon School. An especially interesting program has been planned for the entertainment which follows the business meeting of the league.

The chest clinic conducted by the State health department and the Fairfax County health unit, jointly, was considered very successful in view of the small attendance. Only twelve persons put in their appearance, which was much smaller than was anticipated. Of the twelve examined by the clinician from the State health department two were found who showed positive symptoms of having tuberculosis and one was suspicious. The others were given a clean bill of health in regard to their heart and lungs. Dr. Robert E. Feagans, Fairfax County health officer, stated that he believed that if persons realized the seriousness of the disease and the importance of checking its spread before it had gained too firm a foothold in the body, they would not hesitate in having these examinations made by the health authorities.

Sanitary Officer Robert J. White of Fairfax County again calls attention to the fact that swimming in creeks and waters of the county is exceedingly dangerous because of the continued drought. The contamination of the water in the Potomac River, along the shores in Fairfax County, is so pronounced that bathing in it is unsafe, according to several tests that have been made by the health authorities. Dr. Robert E. Feagans, county health officer, says that by getting the water in the mouth, germs may get into the stomach, and typhoid and other water-carried diseases may follow and cause a serious illness. Many sewers empty into the river from houses and places along the banks. The water about Seneca above Great Falls has been placed under a special ban, as a green scum floats on the surface at many places.

The condition of the water on Pontoon Beach at Camp Humphreys has caused the postponement of several picnics, and the commanding officer, Col. E. H. Schultz, has forbidden swimming in the river on the Army reservation.

Divisional Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson announced yesterday that the question of having liability insurance placed on the county-owned school buses for the next school term will be taken up as a special order of business at the meeting of the board next month. This question was considered last winter by the board, but it did not arrive at a decision in regard to its liability in case of an accident.

Miss Margaret Wingo, who has been teaching the primary grades at the Potters Hill School, has at her own request been transferred to the primary grade at the Franklin-Sherman at McLean. There she will take the position formerly held by Miss Frances Booth, who resigned last spring. Miss Elizabeth Shackleton, of Meherrin, Va., a graduate of the State Teachers College, has been appointed by the school board to fill the vacancy created at the Potters Hill School by the transfer of Miss Wingo.

The list of janitors for the schools in Fairfax County was completed during the last week by the appointment of William Ball as janitor of the Baileys Cross Roads School, D. F. Rusk at the Herndon School and J. C. Tharpe at the Franklin-Sherman School at McLean.

The next school term in the county will commence on September 10 and Superintendent Woodson has announced that everything will be in readiness by that time. The most serious question confronting the school authorities is whether or not the taxes will be collected promptly enough this fall, because of the drought's causing a failure of the crops and a financial depression among the farmers of the county, to finance the schools for a complete term this winter. A clause has been included in the teachers' contracts which makes the board liable for salaries only so long as there are enough funds to carry on the school work.

The case against George Bauchman of Five Oaks, who was arrested last Saturday by Fairfax County Policeman A. W. Mills on the complaint of a 14-year-old girl living near Five Oaks, was dismissed yesterday by Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie at Fairfax.

Policeman Mills stated yesterday that the girl had told a different story at the hearing than she told him Saturday afternoon. The girl had suffered slight injuries when she jumped from a car on the Chain Bridge highway near Vienna. Yesterday she stated that she jumped from the car without warning to Bauchman, when she saw that she did not know him. She had gotten into his car on the road when he stopped to ask her to ride, thinking she knew him.

Lorraine Griffin, Marie Raper and Thomas Clark, all of Alexandria, were arrested by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams and County Policeman Lewis L. Finks at Francois late Wednesday night on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. They were taken before Justice of the Peace Harry Shepherd at Accotink for trial. Justice Shepherd imposed a fine of $10 and costs against the women and fined Clark $10 and costs and sentenced him to 10 days in the Fairfax county jail on the charge.

Man Gives Up Life To Rescue Cattle

William Weeks' Body Is Found in Smoldering Ruins of Barn.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 21.—William Weeks, 40, farm employe, was found burned to death late today in the smoldering ruins of the barn of Joseph H. Funkhouser, destroyed by fire last night at Whitepost, Clarke County.

Weeks was last seen crawling through a window to drive out a herd of hogs after he had made several trips in the same manner to rescue cattle, all of which were saved. A dozen hogs, however, perished.

Weeks leaves a widow and several children. Losses also included 600 bushels of wheat just thrashed, 30 tons of hay, large straw stack and complete farm machinery and equipment, aggregating $10,000, with insurance only on the barn. The farm was managed by Chamblin Funkhouser, son of the owner. Neighbors said they first saw flames coming through the roof.

Charles B. Ficco Adjudged Best and Healthiest of Rockville Entrants.

WINNERS' NAMES GIVEN

Honors in the Rockville Fair baby show, staged yesterday, went to little Charles B. Ficco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Ficco, of 4725 Eighth street, northwest. Little Charley was judged the best and healthiest of the 58 babies entered in the show.

Dr. W. T. Pratt, county health officer, who, assisted by a staff of physicians, examined the babies, declared every one of the youngsters to be 100 per cent physically fit. The contest was so close that several additional judges were called in to assist in making the decision.

Spectators at the show commented upon the beautiful condition of the entrants. Sun-browned and rosy with health, there was not one but rated a ribbon.

42 Cents Cost to Neely Of Senate Nomination

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 21 (A.P.).—The Democratic nomination for United States senator from West Virginia cost former Senator M. M. Neely, Fairmont, more than the 14 cents he previously reported. It cost him 42 cents.

Neely, who was unopposed for the nomination, reported the 14-cent expenditure to the secretary of the United States Senate and the secretary of state of West Virginia. That cost him something he had not reckoned in his previous account.

He straightened up the matter in a post-primary expense account filed today, and it was 42 cents "paid to the United States Postoffice at Fairmont, W. Va."

HUME SPRING HALTS WORK ON ROADWAY

Alexandria Finishes Second Part of Mount Vernon Avenue Paving.

AUTO THEFTS REPORTED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The second section of the Mount Vernon avenue improvement, lying between the intersection of Russell road and Glebe road, has been completed by the city and was opened to traffic yesterday afternoon, thus reducing the length of the detour necessary during the widening and resurfacing of Mount Vernon avenue by the city to conform to the improvement made last year by Arlington County, north of the city limits at Four-Mile Run.

The improvement of the remaining section of the avenue, between Glebe road and Hume Station, to a connection with the existing improvement in Potomac, is going ahead rapidly, and the laying of the concrete shoulders, preparatory to placing the bituminous macadam surfacing, is completed to the crossing of the Washington & Old Dominion Railway.

There is a break of approximately 150 feet on either side of Hume Spring which will not be improved until a decision has been reached regarding the disposition of the spring, which was located by the late Frank Hume, in the middle of the roadway, and which is now considered a menace to traffic, several accidents having occurred at this point. The city authorities have requested the Hume heirs either to allow the spring to be abandoned entirely, or to move it to one side of the road and they have indicated their willingness to comply with the request, but before taking any action they requested that samples of the water be tested to determine its purity. Tests have already been made by the Alexandria Health Department and checked by a laboratory in Washington, but additional tests are now being made by the State Health Department.

In case the Hume spring question is settled promptly, it is expected that the entire stretch of roadway will be completed by the middle of September, giving a 28-foot roadway from the Experimental Farm through to Alexandria.

The theft of two more automobiles was reported to the police yesterday, and the comparatively large number of stolen cars recently reported leads the local police to believe that an organized band of thieves is operating in Alexandria. The two thefts were reported yesterday by Fred C. Goodnow, whose coupe, bearing Virginia tags 183-160, was stolen from in front of his office in the 100 block South Washington street between 7:30 o'clock Wednesday and midnight; and by Richard Stuary, whose roadster, bearing Virginia tags 186-223, was stolen from the 100 block of North St. Asaph street between 8:30 and 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. No trace of either car has been found. Authorities of Washington, Fredericksburg and Fairfax County are notified to be on the lookout.

Monday night the automobile of Elmer Kopp was stolen from in front of his residence, 325 North Columbus street, later being found abandoned. An attempt to steal the car of the Rev. Thomas A. Rankin from in front of 318 North Washington street, the temporary rectory of St. Mary's Catholic Church, was foiled by the ignition and steering gear locks with which the machine is equipped. The car, however, was pushed a block and then abandoned.

Police have issued a warning to automobile owners to keep their cars locked, particularly those who park on the street all night.

The Alexandria Fire Department has received an invitation, through Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, of the Washington Department, to participate in the Labor Day parade in Waashington under the auspices of the Washington Fire Department. The invitation is being considered, and a decision will be reached shortly.

Local firemen are now busy with preparations for attending the State firemen's convention in Phoebus next week, and action on the Washington invitation may be delayed until their return. The Alexandrians have always attended these parades, and it is expected the invitation will be accepted this year.

Lieut. W. M. Glasgow has received a letter from Col. Robert S. Know, Infantry C. M. T. C. officer, Baltimore, commending him for his work and that of the members of his committee in the last C. M. T. C. procurement campaign.

The funeral of Philip N. Neff, commercial aviator, fatally injured in an airplane crash in Tampa, Fla., on Tuesday, will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Anderson, 113 South Alfred street. Services will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be with military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

A meeting of the industrial and trade relations committee of the chamber of commerce will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Bedford Woman Dies at 82.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 21 (Special).—Mrs. Lucinda Jane Murphy, 82, widow of William L. Murphy, died Tuesday at her home in Bedford County, 5 miles from Lynchburg. She was a native of that county.

MANY NEW FIGURES IN MARYLAND'S RACE

Most Noticeable Defections in Ranks of Opponents to Gov. Ritchie.

JOSEPH QUITS CONTEST

Baltimore, Aug. 21 (A.P.).—No matter what the outcome of the September primary and the fall general elections, the make-up of the new Maryland Legislature will reveal many new faces. A check today showed many of the members of the 1927-29 Legislature were not seeking reelection when the deadline for candidacy filing passed.

The withdrawals affect both the counties and the city delegations, and some of the most noticeable defections came from the ranks of vigorous foes of Gov. Ritchie, in the 1929 session. The possibility of defeat for some of those who are seeking reelection also looms in heavy contests in some of the counties and city legislative districts.

Daniel C. Joseph, the oldest member of the House in point of service and an implacable foe of the administration, is the most noticeable withdrawal in the city ranks. From the counties, three other members unalterably opposed to Gov. Ritchie have withdrawn. They are the "Harford alliance," Frederick Lee Cobourn and Robert R. Lawder, Democratic delegates from Harford County, and J. Allison Wilmer, of Charles County.

Notable Senate Defections.

The Senate also has some notable defections, one of which, that of William A. Gunter, of Allegany County, will mark the passing of the Republican floor leader of the upper branch. Two other seats, those of Senators Ambrose J. Kennedy, Baltimore, and A. Lee McCardell, of Frederick, both Democrats, are vacant through their appointment to other State positions. Mr. Kennedy's place is sought by John G. Callan, member of the House, and McCardell's by Edward S. Delaplaine, a Republican.

J. Ronald Horsey, a member of the House, is seeking Daniel Chambers' seat in the Senate from the city, while the senator makes the race for Congress. Paul Berman, Republican city delegate, is after Harry Levin's city Senate post, the latter not seeking reelection.

Another House member seeking elevation to the Senate is Irvin C. Hamilton, of Cumberland, who wants Mr. Gunter's seat, while but two others of the six Allegany County delegates seek reelection.

New Anne Arundel Delegation.

Anne Arundel County will have an entirely new delegation, George T. Cromwell, senator, having withdrawn. Ridgeley Melvin, Democrat, and Walter E. Quenstedt, Annapolis mayor, Republican, both seek the office. Not a single incumbent House member seeks reelection in Anne Arundel.

A fight is being conducted against Senator David G. McIntosh, president of the Senate, in Baltimore County, where three members of the House delegation, including James J. Lindsay, Democratic floor leader, want to return on the administration ticket. A complete opposition slate is in the field.

Senator John Parran and Delegates James C. Chaney and Joseph E. Joy, all Republicans, are unopposed for return in Calvert County.

Englar Quits Race.

A new delegation seeks the House seats from Caroline County, though Senator Nelson Fooks is after reelection. Carrol County will have a new senator, George P. B. Englar having withdrawn, but three of the four House members seek to return, C. Scott Bollinger being the exception.

William T. Vinsinger is the only delegate to file for return from Cecil County, along with Senator Cecil C. Squire. Senator Walter J. Mitchell, administration spokesman in the Senate, wants to return, though J. Allison Wilmer, Republican leader in the House and implacable foe of the administration, is not seeking reelection. John E. Bardoff seeks to return.

Delegate Charles N. Spence, of Dorchester County, wants to advance to the Senate on the withdrawal of Senator Howard P. Spedden, but not one member of the Dorchester delegation has filed for return to the lower house.

Strife in Montgomery.

Abram Ensor seeks reelection to the Senate from Harford County, with Marshall T. Heaps the only member of the Harford House delegation having filed for return. Roger V. Laynor, delegate from Howard, is the only member of the lower house seeking reelection, and Senator Thomas W. Linthicum has not filed for reelection.

In Montgomery County, factional strife has placed two entire legislative tickets in the field for Democratic nomination, with Senator Eugene Jones seeking reelection as head of the antiorganization body. Dr. George L. Edmonds, backed by the organization, is the only one of the Montgomery delegates seeking reelection. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the House, does not want to return for another term.

Three of the five Prince Georges delegates and Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer aspire to continue their legislative service, R. Kent Mulliken, Guy Bell and William F. Keys having filed for the House. Senator Dudley G. Roe, the administration leader in Queen Annes County, seeks reelection, though none of the House delegation have filed their candidacies.

None Asks Reelection.

Somerset County is another where none of the 1927-29 delegation has filed. Senator L. Creston Beauchamp has not sought his seat which is being contested for by Lorie C. Quinn and Henry J. Waters. None of the three delegates has filed.

W. Earl Withgott wants to return as senator from Talbot County. Three new names appear for the seats in the lower branch, Delegates Drinsfield, Harrison and Higgins not seeking reelection.

Daniel D. Keedy, senat from Washington Cou ty, has filed papers for reelection, as have Delegates George D. icks, W. Scott Corbett and Samuel C. Strite, but Robert H. Brindle, Simon L. Downey and Martin L. Ingram have withdrawn.

Ward Seeks Return.

In Wicomico County Senator David J. Ward seeks to return to the upper branch, but is opposed by two others in the primary. Alfred J. Truitt and George E. Kennerly. Clarence W. Wheelton and A. Percy White have filed for reelection, but the places of Doda Hearn and Andrew J. Dashiell are being sought by others on their withdrawal.

Senator S. Scott Beck, important figure in the Senate, has filed for return, as have Arthur Brice and E. C. Bowers, the Kent County delegates, all unopposed.

Senator J. Alan Coad, St. Mary's County representative, has filed his papers seeking reelection.

Seven Are Indicted On Home-Brew Charges

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 21.—Seven persons charged with possession of "home brew" were indicted by the Rockingham County grand jury here today after Judge H. W. Bertram, presiding, in his charge to the jury, pointed out that making of any beverage with more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol is a violation of the Virginia prohibition statutes. Wine and cider made from the farmer's own fruit are the only exception to this act, he added.

Complaints that the "home brew" was being sold or had led to disorderly parties prompted the officers to make the arrests. A total of 263 bottles and 10 gallons unbottled was seized. The grand jury refused to indict a number of others on similar counts.

PASTOR'S RESIGNING LAID TO MODERNISM

Exoneration of Minister by Board of Deacons Failed to End Dissension.

CHARGE FORCED CLIMAX

The teachings of the Rev. Elmer Lucas were "too modernistic" for some members of his little flock in the Baptist Church at Cherrydale, Va., it was said yesterday in explanation of his dramatic resignation, accompanied by some 35 of his parishioners, during a prayer meeting Wednesday night.

Although the minister had been exonerated by his board of deacons a month ago of preaching "doctrines not in accord with the Baptist faith," the dissension had not ended there, and two opposing factions developed within the church, one of which upheld the preacher while the other supported "certain older members" who had criticized him.
